A Year at Southern . . .

Time To Watch a Campus Expand

The remodeling of old buildings to make room for the rise in student enrollment and the construction of new complexes with modernized educational facilities frame the ever-changing physical facade of Southern Illinois University. In the 1967-68 school year, 19,000 students observed the completion of the General Classrooms Building, the Physical Science Building and the Technology complex. The year also saw the remodeling of SIU's first building—Old Main, ground breaking ceremonies for a new Life Science addition, and architectural plans for a new wing to the University Center. More announcements "from the top" informed students that many of the temporary housing barracks—better known as cold in the winter, hot in the summer, old army huts, were to be torn down for new construction.

Time To Work and Save for an Education

Money, in some concrete form, is a necessity to every college student. The "anyone who wants to go to college can" line is a truism though, for there are many means of income for the college-bound person. A large percentage of SIU's student body is aided by many different kinds of scholarships and loans. Besides this source of income, students may obtain financial aid by working for the University or for Carbondale business firms. Students working off-campus may hold such positions as sales clerks or bartenders. Students with University-sponsored jobs may find work ranging from night janitor to airline hostess. Knowing they're not going to get rich on $25 a week, 4,100 SIU student workers find their bi-monthly paycheck adequate help in partially financing the rising costs of a college education.

Time To Learn Students 'Live' for Weekends

The weekend offers college students a chance to catch their breath and forget school for a while before plunging into another five-day stretch of classes and homework. Although it is not unusual to find the library semi-crowded on a Friday or Saturday night, most Southern students choose to "get away from it all"—at least for a while.

SIU students have a multitude of different ideas about how to "escape" the books. Because Southern's campus is built on the perimeter of Thompson Woods, students have within walking distance an area where they can picnic, sunbathe, or just be alone. Some students find relaxation in settling down on Saturday night to a good poker game. Still others board the IC, or thumb their way home for some oldtime "good times" and Mom's peanut butter fudge.

CHICAGO

At SIU, students spend most of their time tackling the work which is necessary for a college degree. Each college student, however, has little trouble finding some leisure time for diversion from homework to numerous social activities. Between Carbondale, itself, and the University, students have a variety of places to go and lose themselves in the crowd. A popular Saluki sports event, a University Center dance, or a private party are the most frequented forms of socializing. The Greeks also sponsor some annual special events, including Teke Ole-Impics, Greek Week, and the Theta Xi Variety Show. Be it a "bull session" with the girls, a picnic on the president's lawn, or a weekend movie, most of Southern's students love to desert their studies for some R and R.

Time To See "What's Happening" Today

1968 was the time of the psychedelic movement —the year of bizarre changes in behavior and fashions. Soul searching seemed to be the most popular pastime for the "flower people," who, despite many predictions, remained a minority group on college campuses. SIU students found graphic art in the form of large wall posters to be the nation's biggest hangup in years. "Hippie" shops, featuring such kaleidoscopic articles as painted cookware, checkered stationery, and hand-made ties and pins were vogue places to visit. Fashions underwent changes as they reverted back to a modified style of the 1920's. SIU coeds wore bright colored opaques and fishnets with short, short dresses and square-toed, squat-heeled shoes this year. Casual wear for males and females included saddle shoes and fisherman sweaters.

Time To Find Meaningful Explanations

At Southern, where 19,000 students work, live, and attend classes together, it's a rare occurrence when some academic or social activity is not asking for the student's attention. However, there are times when the student is alone—times when he can think and form his own opinions about what is wrong and what is right about life—especially his life. When he's walking through snow-covered or rain-drenched Thompson Woods, while he's sitting in the quiet of a church, when he feels the isolating silence of a spring shower, and sometimes even when he's right in the middle of a crowd, the individual can feel the peacefulness of solitude. A year at Southern gives the student time to acquire part of a much needed education; but it also gives the individual time to search a deeper meaning in his life.

New Students Introduced to Southern

New Student Week, 1967, introduced approximately 3,000 freshmen to the Southern campus. Upon arriving at their dorms, these freshmen were greeted by white beanie clad student leaders, who helped unpack cars and move students into their living areas. The new students received their orientation at a mass meeting in the SIU Arena, where they were informed of all the planned events of the week. Among the scheduled activities were dances, a watermelon feast, a style show and a talent show in which only new students participated.

New Student Week leaders make an endless number of trips from car to dorm to help freshmen.

Wheels Night gave new students the opportunity to acquaint themselves with campus organizations.

New Student Week in winter quarter included a Green Beanie Nightclub to entertain freshmen.

New student talent was exhibited at the Freshmen talent show during fall quarter.

Campus Tours, Social

Freshmen are easily recognizable by the beanies they wear during the first week of orientation.

The watermelon feast gives new students an opportunity to meet President and Mrs. Morris.

Activities Highlight New Student Week

The heart of SIU's academic activity, Morris Library tops the list of tours for freshmen.

Giving freshmen an idea of campus life as well as a brief tour was the job of the student leader.

Two new students develop a friendship by one of SIU's traditional landmarks, the cannon of many colors.

Student Workers Finance Education

Offering an opportunity for SIU students to gain employment, the Student Work Office serves as a placement service for student workers on campus. Doing jobs as maintenance men, clerical workers, cafeteria workers, and sales personnel, students take part-time jobs to help put themselves through college or to earn a little "pin-money" to help finance extra expenditures. The number of students presently employed in campus occupations is approximately 4,100, but this number increases with the rise of enrollment.

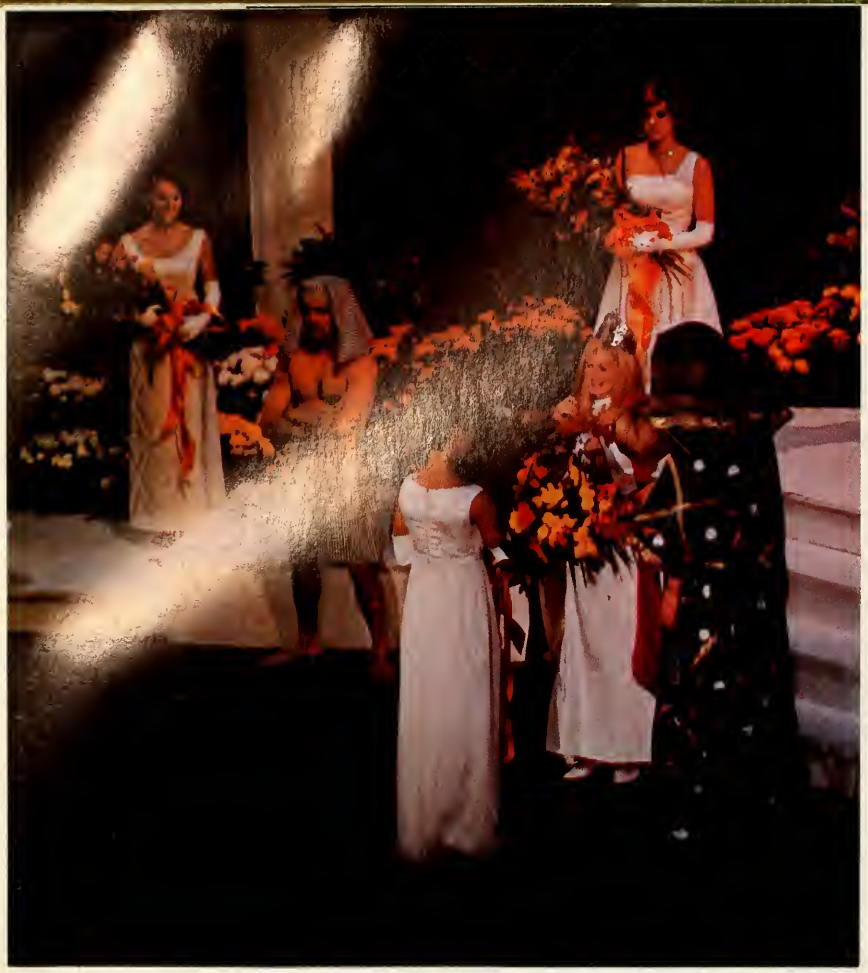
Student workers are employed to help sort, stamp, and deliver mail in the University Post Office.

Coeds working in the SIU campus laundry wash, dry, and iron the laundry for all University utilities.

Stenographic service hires students to copy articles and operate the duplicating machines.

Patrolling the campus community, Saluki student policemen work from five to midnight each night.

Students employed in on-campus dormitory cafeterias check and punch meal tickets daily.



King Menes and retiring queen, Nancy Ketchum, present the 1967 Homecoming Queen with flowers.

"Mad World of

SIU's 1967 Homecoming theme, "The Mad World of Madison Avenue," was accentuated by advertising limericks and "big-business" slang. To kick off the Homecoming weekend, the bonfire was lighted Wednesday night south of the Arena. Activities continued with the queen's coronation and reception, the stage show featuring Johnny Rivers, and the Homecoming Parade. The football Salukis startled Southern fans Saturday afternoon with an amazing upset over Tulsa. Topping off the weekend was the dance in the University Ballrooms featuring the Tommy Dorsey Band.

Singing some of his numerous hit tunes, Johnny Rivers was the main attraction at the stage show.

The traditional bonfire set off a weekend of activities at Southern's annual Homecoming.

Mr. and Miss Freshman, Penny Coughlin and Dick Emory, lit the Homecoming bonfire.

Canadian songsters—Ian and Sylvia—serenaded a full house with their original folk music.

Weekend Brings Homecoming Dates

Homecoming weekend at SIU is that time when the "Southern man" brings his "special girl" to the Land of the Salukis. The day of her arrival, he, along with hundreds of other SIU males, goes to the train station for the traditional wait of the Illinois Central. Chugging down the tracks, the IC finally delivers his weekend date, and when he spots her in the massive crowds, he greets her with a traditional Homecoming kiss. With the weekend before them, they walk off arm in arm to enjoy the festivities at Homecoming '67.

Theta Xi fraternity took top prize for its Homecoming float—"SIU Makes A Clean Sweep."

To aid the visiting parents in their journey around the SIU campus, a "tour train" was used.

SIU Parents Receive a Southern Welcome

Celebrating Parents' Day, SIU students rolled out Southern's welcome mat to visiting parents. A special information desk was set up in the University Center for "lost folks," and student guides were provided so that parents could tour the University grounds. Among the activities of the day were a morning coffee hour, an afternoon football game in which SIU stomped Drake University, a leisurely supper-buffet in the Center, an evening dance for the parents, and a stage show at Shryock featuring Skitch Henderson.

During Parents' Day, a reception-information desk was installed in the University Center.

Parental guests, unfamiliar with the campus, were shown the university community by student guides.

Parents of the Day, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sinclair were greeted by their daughter, Gloria.

Honored parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lamont, receive a corsage and a smile from son, Larry.

Regardless of the warm, un-Christmas like weather, carolers sang out with yuletide cheer.

Christmas Spirit Takes Over at SIU

A Christmas spirit pervaded the SIU campus during the holidays even though yuletide snow did not cover the ground. Activities typifying the fourth Season of Holidays Celebration were held in early December before students journeyed home for Christmas break. Included in the festivities was an annual Christmas party given for underprivileged children by APB. An ice-sculpturing contest, inter-dorm campus caroling, and a tree-trimming party at the Center climaxed the season.

Santa Claus had a pre-Christmas consultation on what presents to bring this Carbondale child.

Another indication of Christmas spirit was the hanging of mistletoe in appropriate places in dorms.

A tree-trimming brigade decorated the Christmas tree in the Magnolia Room of the Center.

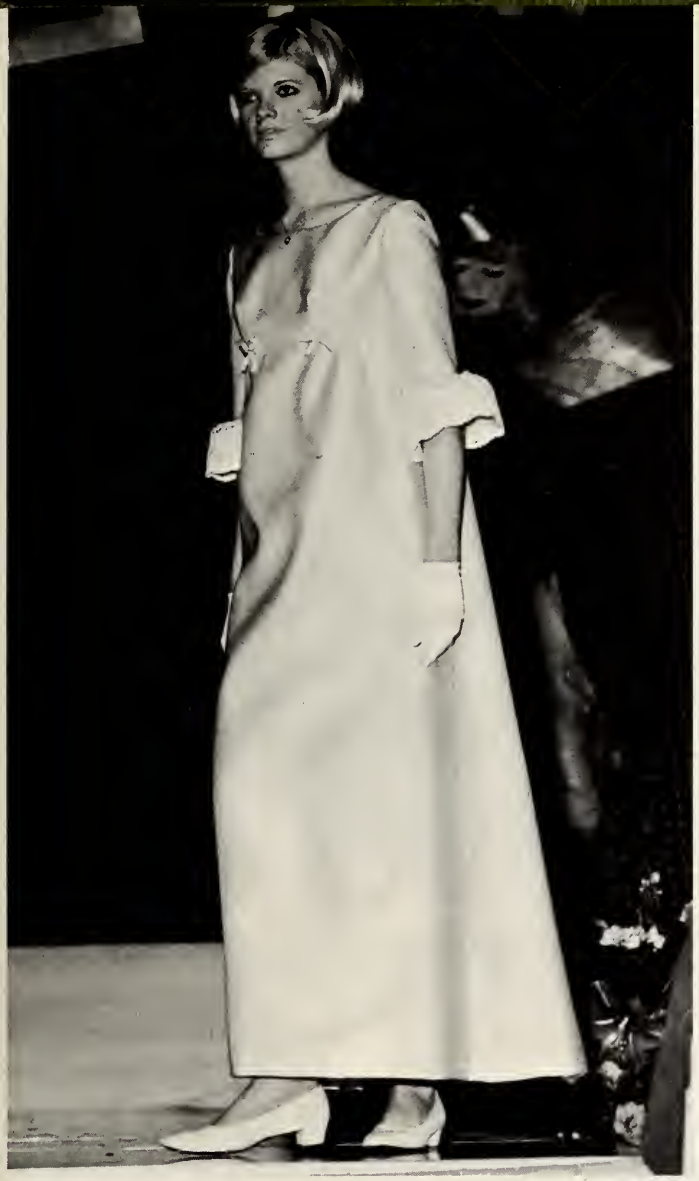
During the ice-sculpting contest, a student chiseled a cross to typify the season.

Campus Military Holds Annual Ball

Sponsored by Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight, the annual Aerospace Ball was thematically structured on the popular song—"Up, Up and Away." The ball, functioning as the only all-school formal dance on the Carbondale campus, was given February 10 in the University Center Ballroom. Music was provided for the occasion by the Military Airlift Command Dance Band from Scott Air Force Base. Highlight of the evening was the crowning of the new Aerospace Ball Queen, Robyn Benton. Preceding the ball on Sunday, February 4, Angel Flight presented a formal style show in which Angelaires and Angelettes modeled proper attire for the ball.

Colonel Edward C. Murphy proudly escorted the newly-crowned Aerospace Ball Queen, Robyn Benton.

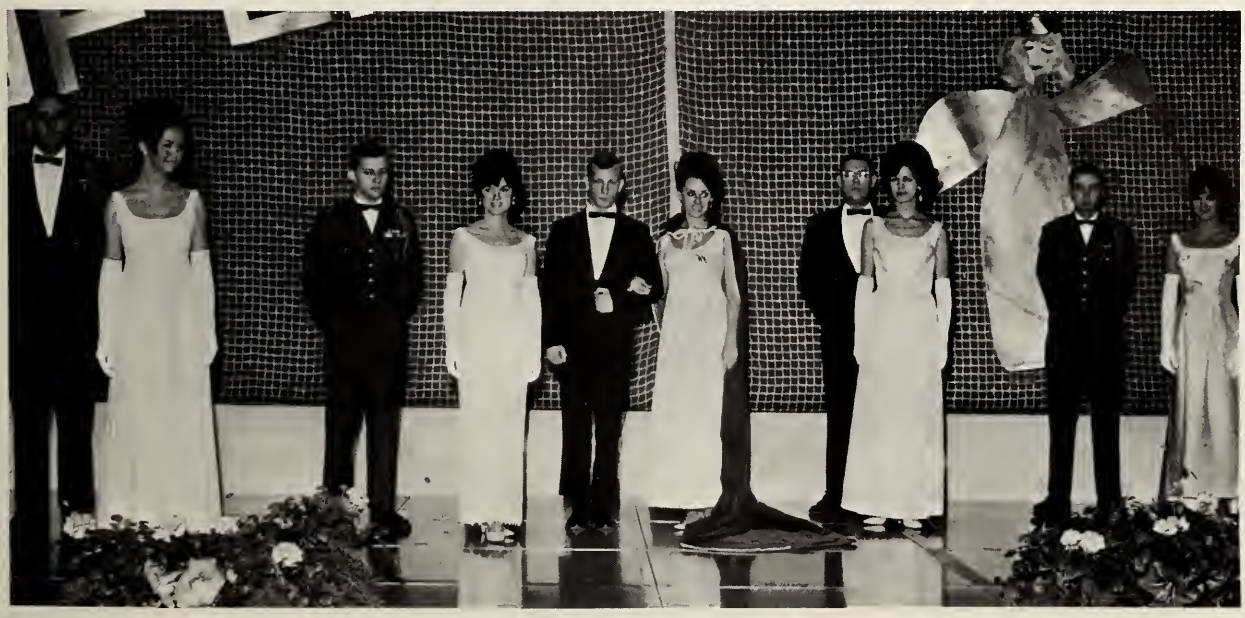
Performing for the Angel Flight style show, the Angelettes gave a dance demonstration.



Jan Pittman, a member of Angel Flight, modeled in the Aerospace Ball Style Show on February 4.

Karen Bedwell, retiring queen, placed the crown on Robyn Benton's head on the eve of February 10.

Five Aerospace Ball Queen candidates were presented at the style show prior to the voting.



"The Visit" by Frederick Duerenmatt was presented by Southern Players November 15 through 19.

Students Produce Diversified Attractions

The Departments of Theater and Speech work together to give the campus community a full three-quarters production of dramas, comedies, children's plays, reading hours, and special oral interpretation performances. Southern Players, a theatrical group of students on campus, presented its traditional set of five plays consisting of "Oh, Dad, Poor Dad," "The Visit," "The Man Who Lost The River," "The Little Foxes," and "Of Thee I Sing." Interpreters Theatre, under the direction of Dr. Marion Kleinau, also gave three major productions during the year.

Compiled and directed by Bill Parker, "Silence in Heaven" spoke out against war and death.

Presented in the style of an old-fashioned melodrama, "The Drunkard" was given during the summer.

Interpreters Theatre operating on the Calipre Stage presented a trilogy—"Lord of the Rings."

Eileen Bender and Joe Robinette starred in Southern Players' summer production of "Mary, Mary."

Opera Cast Presents 'Tales of Hoffmann'

In the Saturday night cast, Peggy Parkinson played the part of Hoffmann's third love—Ahtonia.

Hoffmann proclaims his love in song for Antonia during the last act of the opera.

During the famous septet in Act Two of the opera. Hoffmann declares his love for Guilietta.

Dressed in flowing costumes, the dancers waltzed in the ballroom of Spalanzani's mansion.

In the opera presentation, Jeffrey Troxler sings passionate phrases of amor to his second love.

A curtain call brings forward the entire cast of the opera directed by Marjorie Lawrence on February 17 and 18.

International Week Features Model U.N.

Featuring a combination of sights, sounds, music, and governmental forms found in many countries of the world, International Week was held during the week of February 12-17 on the SIU campus. During the first days, special programs were sponsored to introduce students to international music and folkways. A strategic part of the week was the Model United Nations Assembly sponsored in its tenth year by the Student Government Office. Designed to lead to a better understanding of the United Nations' strive for world peace, visiting ambassadors from Iraq and Afghanistan were invited to speak to the Assembly. Climaxing the week's activities was the International Stage Show.

Taking part in the Model United Nations Assembly, students participated in national delegations.

In honor of the Illinois Sesquicentennial of 1968, a souvenir display was arranged.

Thailand operated a display booth on International Night illustrating some Thai artwork.

During the International Music Festival, SIU students participated in various national songs.

International sights and sounds served as a special program typifying life in foreign countries.

Renowned Artists Entertain at SIU

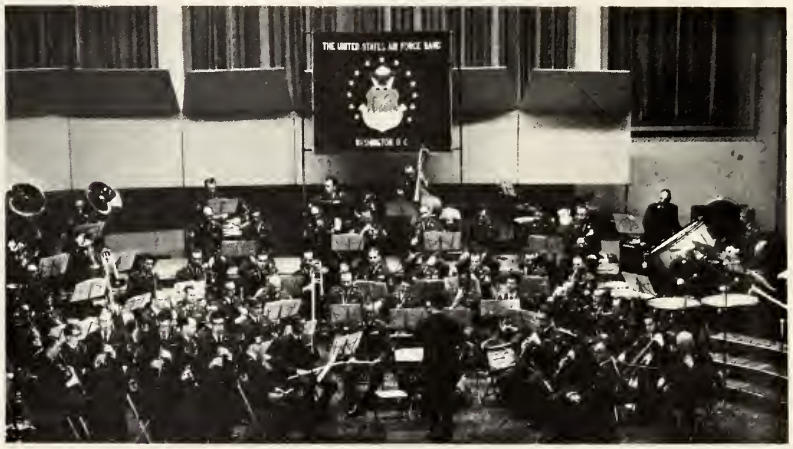
Captivating crowds of students on the SIU campus, a cavalcade of visiting artists and famous personages appeared during 1967-68. The Celebrity Series sponsored various Broadway hits such as "The Roar Of The Greasepaint" and "Hello Dolly!", featuring cinema and musical-comedy stars. Under the auspices of several campus community organizations, Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass, the Supremes, and the Johnny Mann Singers came to Southern. To add to the cultural enlightenment of SIU students, Pearl Buck, Henry Morgan, and Drew Pearson were featured as Freshman Convocation speakers.

The SIU Arena floor was converted into an ice rink for the presentation of "Holiday on Ice."

Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass played their renowned Mexican beat to a capacity crowd.

Featured in two performances, Dorothy Lamour starred in the Broadway hit "Hello Dolly!"

The modern Broadway hit—"The Roar Of The Greasepaint"—was presented at SIU as a November attraction.



The United States Air Force Band performed lively marches at Southern in Shryock Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Action Party, a stage show featuring the Supremes highlighted Spring quarter.

Theta Xi Show Acclaimed Hit at SIU

At the 21st annual Theta Xi Variety Show, seventeen acts played to full houses at Shryock Auditorium on March 1 and 2. Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity and Sigma Kappa sorority captured first place for the third consecutive year with their version of the popular Broadway musical, "Fiddler on the Roof." Along with sorority and fraternity group acts, there were several female and male vocalists, folk-singing groups, and comedy routines. Presentation of the Kaplan Scholarship to Susan Cole and the Service-to-Southern Awards climaxed the evening.

The lilting sounds of "In My Loneliness" won the Chandra Ellis Quartet a first place trophy.

Karl Koy and Jan Pittman, a folksinger duet, captured first place in individual act category.

Another folk-rock trio, The Open Door Policy, was named second-place winner of individual acts.

Adding much humor to the variety show were co-masters of ceremonies Bill Padgett and Nancy Mecum.

Male vocalist, Al Timmons, crooned famous melodies to the enraptured audience.

Vice-president MacVicar presented the female Service to Southern Award to Rosemary Brown.

Richard Karr, recipient of the male Service to Southern Award, was also honored at the show.

Phi Tau's and Alpha Gam's glamorous cutting from "Cabaret" was a major highlight of the show.

Sig Kaps, Phi Sigs Capture First Place

Sig Kaps and Phi Sigs took top honors in the group act division for the third consecutive year.

Spring Festival 'Is About Time'

Featuring a combination of songs, themes, and stunts from a myriad of musical shows, the 1967 Spring Festival opened on May 5. Even though the weather was cool and rainy, spectators crowded the festival grounds to view mud baths, a house of chance, and the art of barrel riding. The shows and rides flanking the midway were all united under the festival theme—It's About Time. Laying aside academic studies for two days, and skipping out on other extra-curricular activities seemed worthwhile to the winners when the awards were presented Saturday night at an all-school dance in the University Center Ballrooms.

Completely drenched in mud, this SIU coed has just gone down the Delta Chi's mud-bath slide.

Selling the ever-popular cotton candy and popcorn, refreshment stands were scattered on the festival grounds.

SIU's basketball star, Walt Frazier, exhibited the power of his arm to the festival crowd.

Giving students a chance to "beat out" their frustrations, one club rounded up an old car.

The Alpha Gams and Phi Sigs "belted out" their rendition of selected songs from "Bye Bye Birdie."

Carrying a torch lighted by Miss Southern, Ken Ortiz took the first leg in a patriotism run to KXOK.

Famous Embezzler

A gambling tent was set up to entice the crowd into a "House of Chance" on the festival midway.

For only a dime, anyone could have friend or foe jailed by Tekes and Sigmas for three minutes.

Theta Xi's, D. Z.'s Win Show Honors

Choosing the Broadway musical, "Oliver," Theta Xi and Delta Zeta carried off the first-place trophy.

SIU Coeds Typify Campus Beauty

During a year filled with the selection of four or five campus queens, many SIU beauties are by-passed in the choosing of Southern royalty. Like those girls selected to represent the campus, these unacknowledged coeds also display the qualities necessary to be a queen. Because of the large amount of girls, it would be impossible to give recognition to every one who is "possible queen material." The OBELISK has pictured on these pages a few who might serve as a standard to show that SIU's campus has more pulchritude than can be represented by its queens.

Weekend Activities Spark Social Life

Between the name-band dances and the stage shows featuring renowned performers, SIU students have a variety of places to go for a casual date. Come TGIF—Thank God It's Friday—Day, the campus begins to hum with the activity of planning for the two-night spree. If they do not choose to attend the weekly dance in the Roman Room or back the Salukis, they may take in a movie downtown, go off to a private party, or temporarily bolt out the academic world with a lingering conversation over coffee at the Center.

On a weekend date, Donna Raske and Elmer Strueh enjoy a pizza at one of Carbondale's pizza palaces.

Reluctant for their date to come to an end, two SIU students linger before saying "goodnight."

Since high grade-point averages merit car permits, SIU coeds keep a sharp watch for academic achievers.

Miss Southern
Carol Martindale

Displaying her pantomimic talent of the Barbra Streisand classic—"Second-Hand Rose"—Carol Martindale captured the coveted title of Miss Southern. A brown-eyed junior majoring in art education, Carol was then qualified to take part in the Miss Illinois Pageant at Aurora. The Texas beauty, transferred to SIU from the University of the Philippines and is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority.

For the first time in thirty-one years, the SIU student body chose a Carbondale girl as its 1967 Homecoming Queen. A pert senior majoring in special education, Hazel Scott is the first Negro ever to reign as Homecoming Queen of the SIU campus. During her free hours, Hazel works as a check-out girl in a Carbondale grocery store. After the coronation ceremonies, Hazel's mother was on hand to congratulate her at the queen's reception.

Miss Southern Acres

Michelle Inman

Reigning as Miss Southern Acres, Michele Inman is a student at SIU's Vocational-Technical Institute. She is studying to become an executive secretary and is gaining practical experience by working for the head resident of the Southern Acres' residence halls. Pert Michele participates actively in VTI and campus functions. Service on the Programming Board for VTI, the Intramural Board, and Homecoming Float Committee shows Michele's interest in the campus community.

Miss Thompson Point

Carol Cummiskey

Majoring in dental hygiene at SIU's Vocational Technical Institute, Carol Cummiskey, Miss Thompson Point for 1967, was chosen by popular election after a talent performance, swim suit and formal competition. Carol's entry for the talent competition was a parody on a "weather girl." A brunette with hazel eyes, Carol serves as secretary of the Southern Division of Junior Dental Hygienists Association.

Miss University Park

Toni Benson

An active junior at SIU, Toni Benson was chosen Miss University Park by a panel of judges. Majoring in home economics—clothing and textiles merchandising, Toni participated in home economics activities by serving as membership chairman of the Home Economics College Chapter and by sitting on the Dean's Council for Home Economics. The hazel-eyed brunette from Stonington is a member of the home economics honorary—Kappa Omicron Phi.

Miss Woody

Carol Roseen

Presenting a cutting from the play, "The Rainmaker," in the talent competition—Carol Roseen gained the title of Miss Woody for '68. Working toward a speech major, Carol, who is from Lansing, Illinois, enjoys doing things connected with the Department of Theater such as painting and setting up stagecraft. All of Carol's work is not done behind the scenes, however. She was scheduled to have a part in "Three Penny Opera" during the spring of '68. The brown-eyed coed serves Woody Hall as secretary of her dorm floor.

Mrs. Southern

Pat Fritz

Coming out ahead in swim suit and formal competition, as well as a question and answer period, Mrs. Pat Fritz was awarded the title of Mrs. Southern. Crowned in mid-February, Pat is the wife of Steve Fritz, who is a graduate student working for a master's degree in history. An active member of the Dames Club, Pat works in the Accounting Office on the SIU campus. The couple, originally from Freeburg, now make their home at Southern Hills.

Aerospace Ball Queen

Robyn Benton

A Southern belle from West Frankfort, Robyn Benton captured the coveted title of Aerospace Ball Queen from a selection of four other Angel Flight members. Robyn is an active member in the singing division of Angel Flight—the Angelaires. The brown-eyed, brunette sophomore is majoring in elementary education and minoring in music. Chosen by a popular vote of AFROTC membership, Robyn began her reign on February 10.

Hands clutched together, the last two candidates await the announcement of Miss Southern of '67.

The winner is announced. The queen crowned. There she is—an example of royal beauty and poise when only minutes before this regal specimen was a nervous wreck. Her heart beats rapidly as she waited the fateful moment when the announcement would be made. Her hands were clenched. In one flash she recalled the exhausting practice for her talent-competition entry, the major selection of just the right gown, and the hours she had spent getting ready this evening—to be an SIU queen.

Campus Royalty Reacts to Coronation

When Woody Hall Queen was announced, new Miss Woody, Carol Roseen, broke out in tears.

Newly-crowned Mrs. Southern, Pat Fritz, is rewarded a kiss of congratulations by her husband.

Feet Characterize SIU Personalities

The personality of the SIU student can sometimes be characterized by merely looking at his feet. All around campus are waterlogged feet which have become acclimated to the Carbondale monsoon season. The artistically talented student can be identified by the ballet slipper. New fads about the campus such as mocassins or high leather boots create the impression of the person ready for "—— or high water." The sportsman's foot can be viewed as an active man behind the shoe, while bare feet symbolize the relaxed student out of the shoe.

Morris Presents Awards at Honors Day

To honor individual student achievement in academic areas, the administration sponsored the annual Honors Day Program on May 16, 1967, in the SIU Arena. Undergraduates with a grade-point average of 4.25 and graduating seniors with high academic standing were invited to the program as honored guests. Dr. Robert L. Gold, assistant professor in history, gave the address—"The Academic Abyss." Graduating seniors received from President Morris gold keys mounted with the Southern Illinois University crest in recognition of their academic work.

Honors Day Reception functioned as a "get-together" between students and their faculty.

During the reception, honored students met and talked with Dr. Robert Gold, the program speaker.

The Honors Day program on May 16 honored outstanding academic achievers on all class levels.

Martha Edmison, top-ranking 1967 graduate, and her parents conversed with President Morris.

Final week finds most SIU students starting a "save the grades" campaign by doing a great deal of "hitting the books." Many hours are spent in Morris Library, cramming for crucial exams which sometimes count as much as one-half of the final grade. All over campus, students burn the midnight oil into "all-night" oil and study until they feel they can absorb no more. The hour of the final arrives, and regardless of the consequences, the student feels the load lift from his shoulders as he turns his exam in and leaves the classroom. Bravely—sometimes—the student checks the posted grades and heads anywhere—just away from books and classes and homework and outside readings and experiments and . . .

Morrises Invited To White House

An expanding university and growing involvement in the development of education on an international level has characterized Dr. Delyte Morris' nineteenth year as president of Southern Illinois University. During this year, President Morris guided the increase in enrollment and burgeoning number of new buildings rising on campus, such as the new Life Science addition, the two new high rise dormitories, and the Physical Science building.

As part of the university's contract with the Agency for International Development, President and Mrs. Morris made an inspection tour of University sponsored educational progress in foreign lands. While traveling through New Zealand, Australia, and Asia, they visited SIU personnel in Saigon, Vietnam; Kathmandu, Nepal; and Kabul, Afghanistan. As a result of the work of the university to place a training center in Nepal, President Johnson invited the Morrises to a White House dinner to meet the King and Queen of Nepal on November 1.

As an annual event, the Morrises invite new freshmen to a watermelon feast on their lawn.

Although Dr. and Mrs. Morris spent three months abroad, they were here for major university functions.

Board Approves Construction Projects

Chosen by the governor and approved by the state senate, SIU's Board of Trustees consists of seven members who serve six-year terms. Having completed his term of service, former trustee Arnold Maremont was replaced this year by Ivan Elliott, Jr.

Business transactions of the Board this year included the usual faculty and administrative changes, ratifying the present policy concerning the use of University property for meetings, and accepting a number of bids for construction projects. An architectural planning contract was awarded by the Board for completing the upper interior of Morris Library. The Board also sanctioned a $9.7 million addition to the Life Science Building and approved this year's operating budget of $70,427,322.

Tenney Supervises University Plans

As vice-president of planning and review, Dr. Charles Tenney examines plans for staff changes and proposed alterations in the organization and procedures of the University. Besides this, he takes part in the designs for the consolidation, refinement, and diversification of the University's program according to the statewide master plan sponsored by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Vice-president Tenney has been at SIU since 1931. Coming to Southern from the University of Oregon where he obtained his doctorate degree and taught for several years, Dr. Tenney was administrative assistant to President Morris from 1948 to 1952 and served as staff vice-president for instruction until the central administration was reorganized in 1964.

MacVicar Serves As Morris Tours

During the 1967 spring term, Vice-president MacVicar visited several of Southern Illinois University's international educational projects in Asia. In addition to his regular duties as vice-president, Dr. MacVicar served as acting president of SIU while President Delyte Morris and his wife were absent on a three-month world tour.

Appointed as vice-president of academic affairs in 1964, Robert MacVicar was named to this position when the new executive organization was instituted to ease the problems involved with administrating a two-campus university. Included in Vice-president MacVicar's responsibilities are the general coordinating duties for the instructional, research, and publications programs of the University.

Rendleman Heads Business Affairs

Business operations and physical development of Southern Illinois University are the responsibilities of John Rendleman, vice-president for business affairs. All business activities pertaining to both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses are handled by Vice-president Rendleman. During the last fiscal year under his administration, $12 million in construction contracts for both campuses were awarded and an estimated $22 million will be let out in contracts this year.

While touring the western part of the United States last year, Vice-president Rendleman spoke to alumni groups. Arnold Air Society also honored him last May by presenting him with the Gold Medallion Award, a national service honor.

Ruffner Oversees Student Services

For three years, Ralph Ruffner has been vice-president of student and area services. Under his jurisdiction come such university departments as Health Service, International Services Division, Student Affairs Division, University News Service, and Student Work and Financial Assistance.

Before becoming one of Southern Illinois University's vice-presidents, Dr. Ruffner was a teacher and administrator for fifteen years at George Washington University in Washington D.C. He then became involved in international work and at one time was the U.S. deputy representative to UNESCO in Paris. At the same time, he was doubling in the diplomatic corps of the State Department as the first secretary of the American embassy located there.

Expansion Typifies Edwardsville Campus

Totally a commuter school, the Edwardsville campus of Southern Illinois University is distinguished by its full-scale expansion program. Open to classes since last year are two new buildings on campus, the Science Building and the Communications Building. The University Center, which provides an activity area and food service necessary for commuter students, was opened in the spring. Now under construction is a General Offices Building and a faculty office addition to the Science Building.

Edwardsville Campus offers its 8,528 students bachelor's degrees in six divisions—business, education, fine arts, humanities, science and technology, social sciences, and nursing. Now developing rapidly is a small graduate program.

Among the first buildings constructed on campus, the Peck Building is used for general classrooms.

Complete with a new theatre, the Communications Building opened to classes in the fall of 1966.

The simple architecture of the innovative Science Building is captured by a photographer at dusk.

Part of the nucleus of the expanding SIU campus at Edwardsville is the Elijah Lovejoy Library.

Edwardsville commuters utilize the activity area in the University Center between classes.

'68 Obelisk Honors Key Professors

Dr. A. Frank Bridges, associate professor of health education, started the Safety Education Program at Southern Illinois University in 1945. Through Dr. Bridges, SIU developed the first teaching minor and first graduate course in health education in the state. An author of various articles in his field, Dr. Bridges is a member of many national health organizations and has supervised several students seeking master's degrees in health and safety.

For four years, the OBELISK staff has built a tradition of honoring those faculty members of Southern Illinois University who exhibit more than the usual skill in their profession as teachers. These people are selected through recommendations of the deans from their respective colleges.

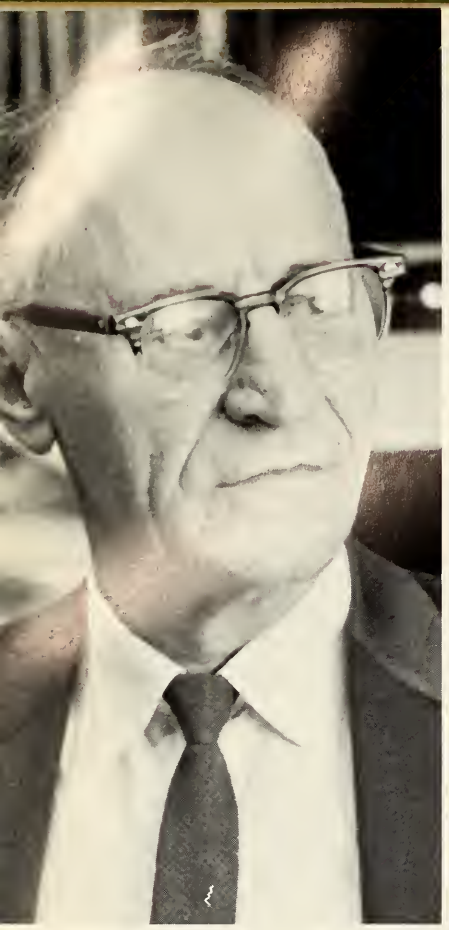
No longer a pedantic classroom figure, today's teacher contributes to his profession with lecture tours, books and articles, and research. The '68 OBELISK recognizes twelve educators from Southern Illinois University who merit the distinction of being chosen Outstanding Faculty for 1968.

Dr. Randall Nelson, professor of government, received his master's and doctorate degrees from the University of Michigan. Although he is handicapped by blindness, Dr. Nelson made a major contribution to his field of study with the publication of The Primary Sources of American Government. Written with John Wuest, the book has been adopted by 50 colleges and universities for use as a textbook. Dr. Nelson is adviser for SIU's Young Democrats in addition to being a Carbondale councilman.

Dr. Jay Bender, former professor of physical education at SIU, is being honored posthumously by the OBELISK this year. Dr. Bender, who died of cancer on September 30, 1967, was nationally known for his work in physical fitness, isometric exercise and scientific muscle development. Prior to coming to Southern, he was a physical education instructor at the University of Illinois and Bradley. Dr. Bender held patents on several physical education devices.

Dr. David Armstrong, associate professor of agricultural economics, was honored as the outstanding teacher in the School of Agriculture at the annual agricultural banquet in February, 1967. Besides serving as sponsor to several club organizations, he also advises students majoring in agricultural industries. In the four years he has been at SIU, Dr. Armstrong has directed approximately 15 master's theses and conducted extensive research projects.

Dr. Juh Wah Chen, associate professor of technology, was a consultant for the Upjohn Company before coming to SIU. Both his master's and doctorate degrees were earned at the University of Illinois. With teaching specialties in transport phenomena and reaction engineering, Dr. Chen's research interests lie in kinetics, transfer processes, and mathematical simulations. At the present time, he is engaged in work concerning air and water pollution research.



Dr. Henry Rehn, professor of management, came to Southern Illinois University in 1945 as Dean of the College of Vocations and Professions. When the divisions of this college became large enough to become independent colleges, he served as Dean of the School of Business until 1965. Now a full-time teacher, Dr. Rehn, author of a textbook on cost accounting, is a member of several professional fraternities and is certified as a public accountant in two states.

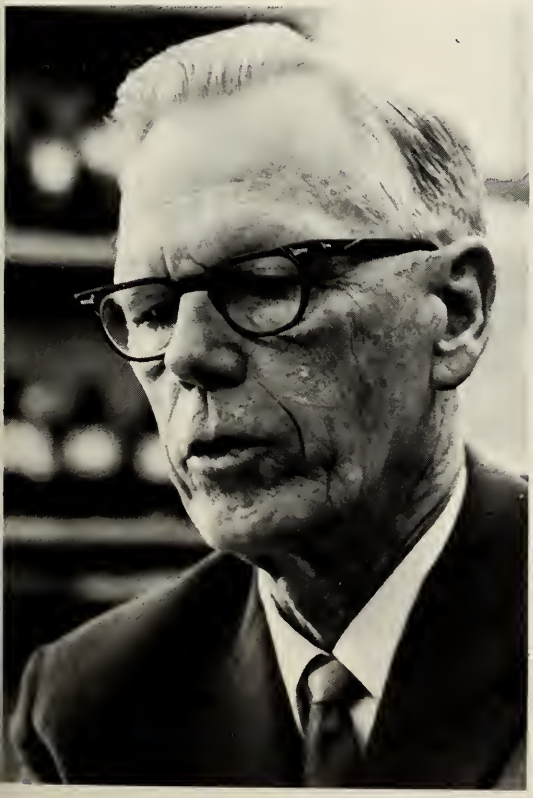
William Taylor, an instructor in the Department of Music, has been a member of the voice faculty since 1955 and has often served as the commencement "Alma-Mater" soloist since then. The director of SIU's Summer Music Theatre, he is also the associate director of opera at Southern. Besides receiving a Fulbright Grant which sent him to Rome, Mr. Taylor has gone on concert tours in the Far East, including a concert for President Sigmund Rhee of Korea.

Dr. Bryce Rucker, professor of journalism, directs journalism graduate studies and research at Southern. In May, 1968, Southern Illinois University Press published Dr. Rucker's third book, The First Freedom. Testifying against mergers of mass communications and newspaper companies, Dr. Rucker served as a witness for the Federal Communications Commission and a Senate committee. One of his current research projects relates to governmental news restrictions.

Dr. Florence Foote, associate professor of physiology, puts teaching above all her other activities. Dr. Foote states, "I value my contacts with students very highly. One of the less satisfying aspects of large classes is the impossibility of knowing individual students well." Chiefly interested in developmental biology, Dr. Foote, has authored scientific articles and is presently serving as president of the honorary scientific research organization, Sigma Xi.

Dr. Lewis Hahn, professor of philosophy, was recently selected as "Philosopher of the Year" by a committee who published a report in the Directory of American Philosophers. A Phi Beta Kappa, he received his doctorate degree from the University of California in 1939. Currently, he is chairman of the Committee on the Advanced Test in Philosophy for the graduate record examination and a member of the United States National Commission for UNESCO.

Dr. James Neckers, professor of chemistry, served as chairman of that department for 36 years, the longest tenure as a department chairman in SIU's history. Besides receiving the SIU Alumni Great Teacher Award, he co-authored a book which has been used by over 150 schools. Since coming to Southern, Dr. Neckers has guided the growth of the Department of Chemistry from a faculty of three to 23, and expanded the curriculum to a seven year program.



Dr. Anna Carol Fults, chairman of SIU's Department of Home Economics Education, taught at Arkansas State Teachers' College and Florida State University before coming to Southern. A member of the Illinois Vocational Homemaking Teachers' Association, Dr. Fults published an article "Money Management Practices of Teenagers From Low-Income Families" in the January, 1967, issue of the Journal of Home Economics. In 1964 she traveled to visit former SIU international home economics students.

Research Spends $13 Million in '67

Averaging the completed paperwork on one proposal for a research project per day, the SIU Office of Research and Projects receives a variety of study proposals each year. While coordinating all research at Southern Illinois University, the office does everything from acquiring legal advice for researchers to cataloguing publications.

Handling the processing of proposals, ranging from cancer studies to research on durable press, the office receives financing for university research projects from two main sources—the state of Illinois and industries and foundations. Grants from outside sources last year totaled $12.5 million while another three quarter of a million dollars was financed internally by Southern Illinois University itself.

Head of the research office, Ronald Hansen oversees all research projects taking place at SIU.

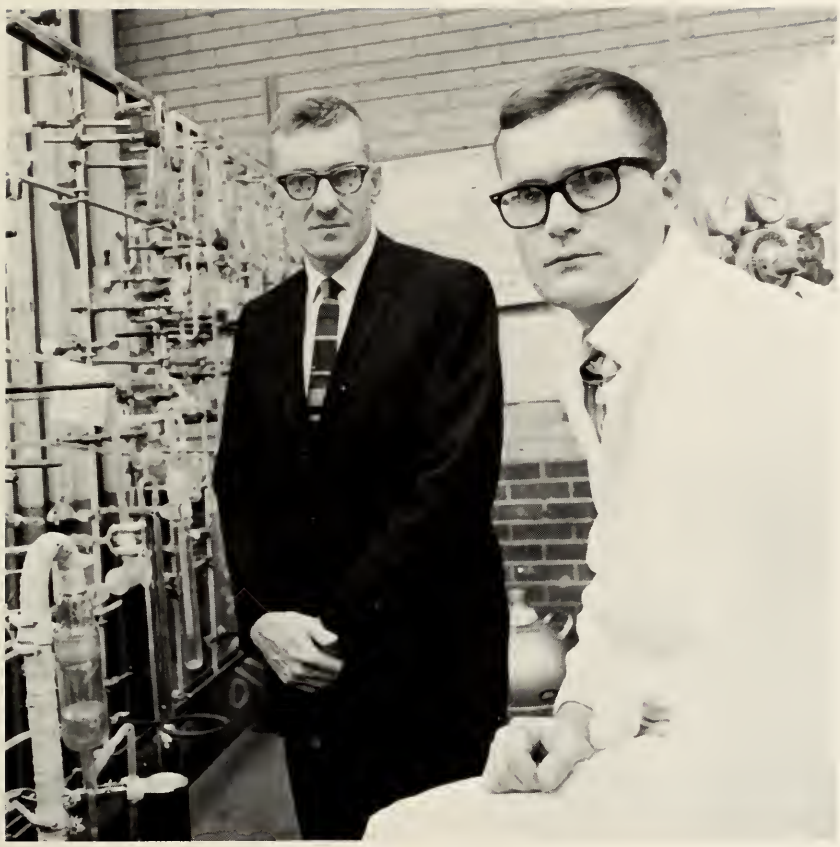
Robert Hawkins of the Wildlife Research Laboratory ages an adult buck by tooth development.

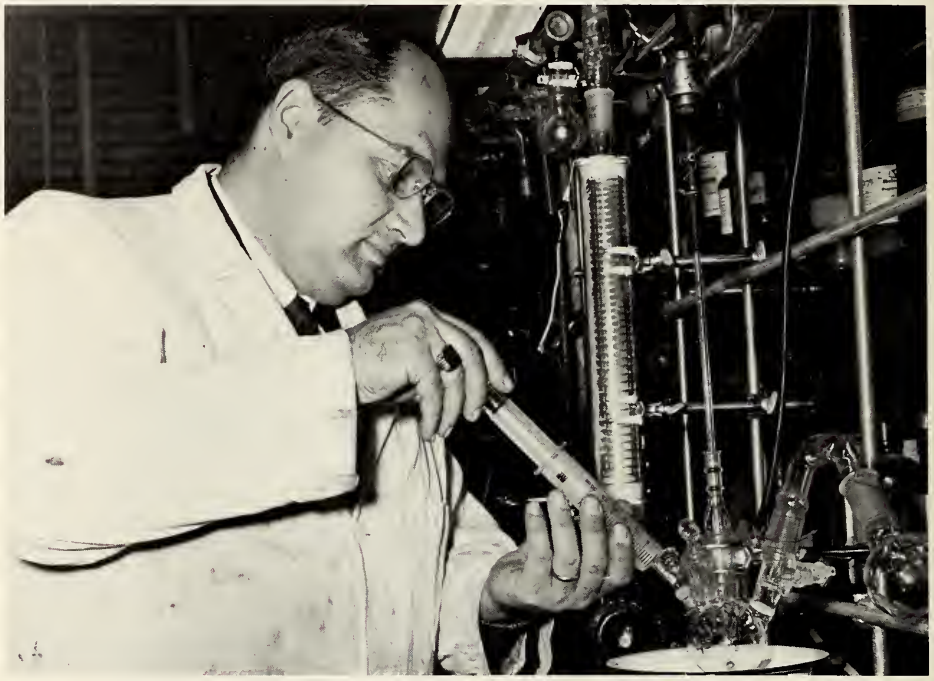


Methods of producing polyethylene plastics are sought by Dr. C. D. Schumulbach and David Wasmund.

To determine ways of modifying behavior, Dr. Richard Sanders studies the pecking order of quail.

Drs. Charles Lange and Carroll Riley study the life of archaeological researcher Adolphe Bandelier.

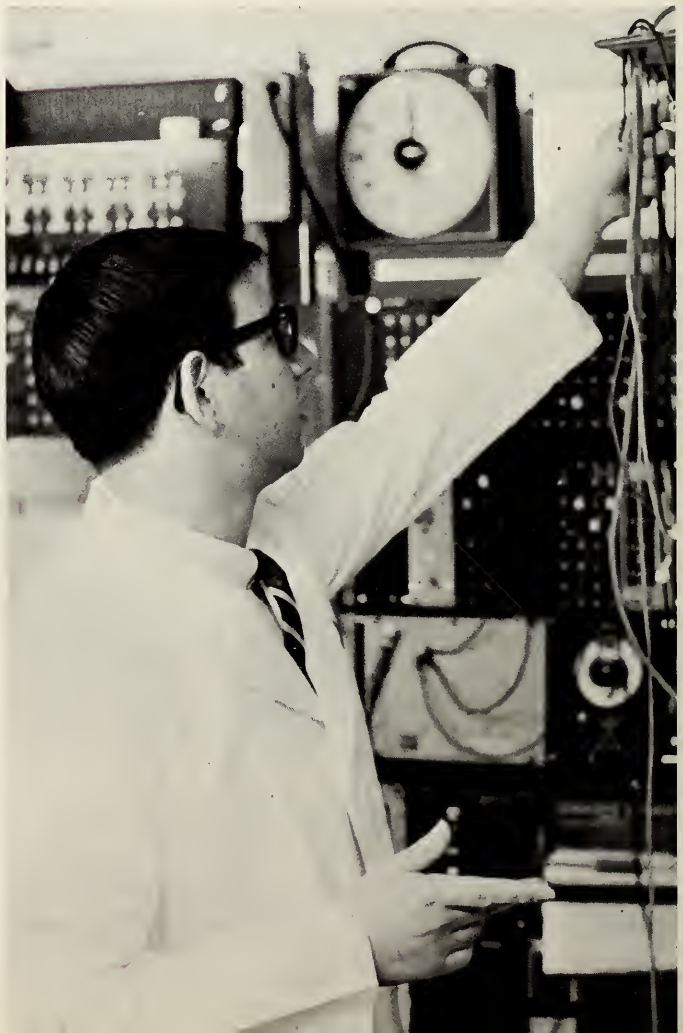
Research Conducted in Diverse Areas



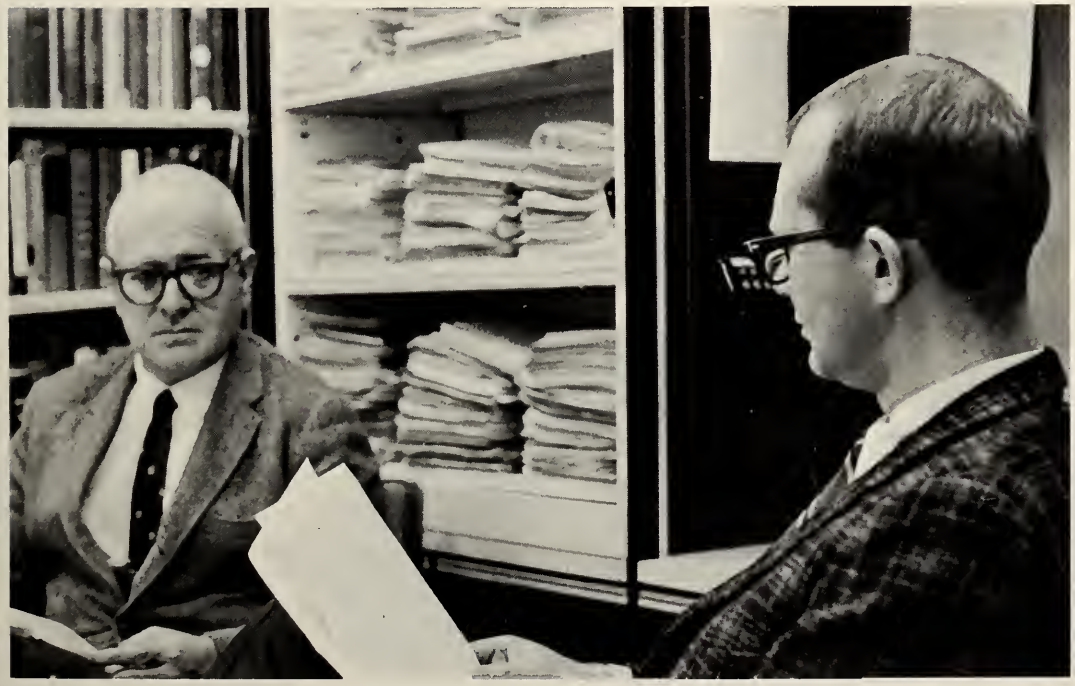
Dr. Stephen Darling investigates alkali metal reductions in the synthesis of natural products.

Adjusting equipment, Dr. Robert Levitt experiments with cholinergic drugs for inducing thirst.

With a $15,260 grant, Dr. Paul Schilpp does research for the Library of Living Philosophers.



Behavior work with horses on an SIU farm occupies Dr. George Waring's research attentions.



Drs. Herman Lantz and Earnest Alix study the relationship of poverty resignation and job behavior.

School of Agriculture Obtains

In a difficult maneuver, an ag student backs a tractor and wagon through closely placed poles.

New Greenhouses

Indicating a healthy student interest in preparing for a wide variety of careers in the services, sciences, businesses and industries related to the field of agriculture, a strengthening of the School of Agriculture's graduate programs and a nine percent growth in undergraduates was attained this year. By adding teachers with experience in national and international agriculture, the School of Agriculture faculty was reinforced and expanded.

The School's advanced teaching and research capacity was developed by physical plant improvements including the installation of eight plant growth chambers, and a gas chromatograph unit. Entailed also are a new Forest Service Building and greenhouses built by the U.S. Government.

Advisory Councils

Moving out of temporary barracks, the School of Business was relocated in the new General Classrooms Building in the spring of 1967. The dean and faculty offices plus fully equipped business classrooms are contained in the new building.

To keep the school aware of current business practices, the Dean's Advisory Council provides an open exchange between businessmen, professors, and students. Business students in the classroom and at organizational meetings meet with the Council and outstanding businessmen to provide greater perspective to students' professional aspirations. Also helping the School is a sixteen-member School of Business Student Council which coordinates the school activities and serves on faculty committees.

Communications Sees Advancement

Under the direction of Dr. Marion Kleinau, the Interpreters Theatre produced "In White America." The Speech Pathology and Audiology Department became accredited this year and welcomed back post-doctoral fellow Dr. Michael Hoshiko from his leave of absence taken for studying the use of radio-telemetry in physiological research.

Printing and Photography experienced a new wave of interest in photography as the demand for appreciation courses in still photography and motion pictures rose. The Department of Journalism arranged its third annual Journalism Education Administration Workshop at which it gave the first annual award for meritorious service to journalism education to Dean Seibert of Michigan State University.

C. Horton Talley completed his thirteenth year as dean of Southern's School of Communications.

Required for speech correction majors is observation of therapy sessions like Dr. Sue Pace's.

Evoking emotion from reading is the goal of Dr. Marion Kleinau's Interpreters Theatre students.

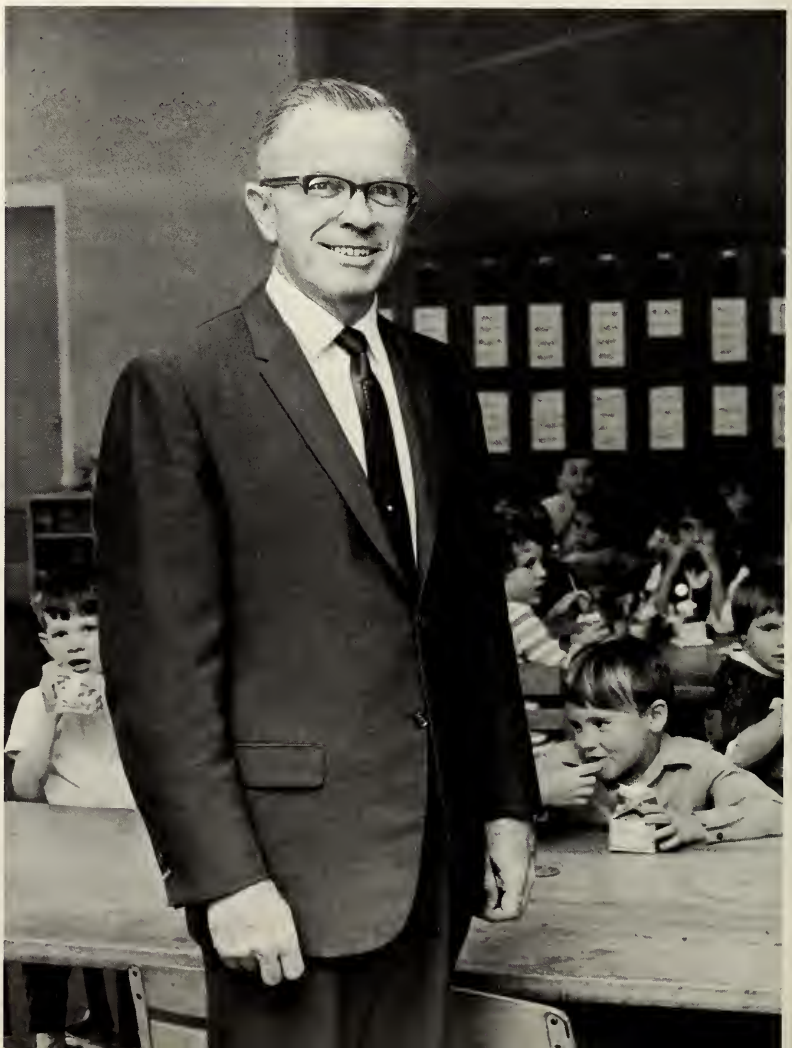
Education Establishes Schools in Mali, Africa

Almost 800 students finished instruction necessary to become elementary or secondary school teachers in the College of Education this year. During the year over 2,000 graduate students were enrolled to work at the master's, specialist, and doctoral level. Twenty people enrolled in the Teacher Corps program which is under the direction of John Clark and Mrs. Grace Duff.

By supplying staff members and consultants for Title III projects, Southern's College of Education extended its cooperation to several school systems. Other projects the college supported included a program for the improvement of elementary normal schools in Viet Nam and a project to establish secondary schools in Mali, in West Africa.



A popular speaker, Dean Elmer Clark addresses numerous education meetings during the year.

A coeducational class in square dancing is offered in SIU's physical education department.

Working in a Department of Recreation summer workshop, a counselor tells a story to some children.

For a class in children's literature, Kathy Boeving wrote and illustrated her own book.

Education Seniors Practice Teaching

Each year approximately 1,100 prospective teachers set out to fulfill their student teaching requirements. The SIU Student Teaching division, ranked third in the country in placing student teachers, locates education majors in 68 Illinois school in addition to public schools in Chicago. For the entire school day, the student teacher is in school and follows exactly the schedule of his public school cooperating teacher, both in regular and extracurricular activities. For his work, the student teacher earns either twelve or sixteen hours of credit in the College of Education. On these pages, the '68 OBELISK pictures a school day in the life of one of these student teachers, Miss Carole Wilson, who did her student teaching in Winkler School in Carbondale.

Outdoor activity like a game of "London Bridge" provides healthy exercise for kindergarten ages.

Part of every kindergarten's class day is a time for reading and listening to stories.

Although his position is precarious, a small boy trusts that his teacher will not let him fall off.

Fine Arts Dean, Burnett Shryock, oversaw Illinois Sesquicentennial activities in the school.

Fine Arts Faculty Displays Works

Several faculty members in the College of Fine Arts made impressive achievements in the past year. Expo '67 featured the United States Pavilion designed by SIU's R. Buckminster Fuller of the Department of Design. For the State Sesquicentennial, Will Gay Bottje, SIU composer and electronic music creator, wrote a full-length opera, "Reviled Patriot," based on the story of John Peter Altgeld, governor of Illinois 52 years ago. Works by Herbert Fink, chairman of the Art Department, were added to the Rhode Island School of Design and Eastern Michigan University, giving him representation in 25 major museums and art galleries. Working with super-eight film in one of the newest fields of art, Bruce Breland filmed "a happening" in Pasadena, California.

Art classes offer students a chance to try out their own picture ideas in watercolor or oils.

At orchestra practice, two bass violin players wait with bows raised for their cue to come in.

From the famous pottery center of Kyoto, Japan, Hiroaki Morino demonstrated pottery techniques.

Design majors work on a model of the unusually shaped auditorium the department plans to build.

Seniors in Fine Arts

In an art class in jewelry and silversmithing, the emphasis is put upon designing experience.

Studying the potential effect of junior colleges on home economics enrollment, the School of Home Economics worked closely with area junior college administrative personnel on curriculum and courses. An annual Home Economics Guest Day in March 1967, brought approximately 1,200 high school students, faculty, and guests to the campus.

Professor Hope Foote joined the faculty for two quarters as a distinguished visiting professor in the field of interior and furniture design. Other distinguished visitors included Dr. Neige Todhunter, civilian nutrition consultant to the U.S. Air Force surgeon general, and Jack Larsen, internationally known fabric designer. Enrollment in the undergraduate program is over 500 and 13 specialized areas.

Home Economics Dean, Eileen Quigley is in charge of undergraduate and graduate programs.

LA & S Institutes Religious Studies

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences experienced a year that was both trying and rewarding. The English Department lost its chairman, Robert Faner, when he died unexpectedly in his office of an apparent heart attack on December 14, 1967. Howard Webb was appointed acting chairman in his place. A new program of religious studies in the history of western and non-western religious thought was recently established. Professor John Hayward, formerly on the faculty of the University of Chicago and Meadville has been appointed director of this program beginning in the fall of 1968. Putting an emphasis on communication with students, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences prepared a handbook to answer student questions on the school.

While Dean Julian Lauchner was on leave in Brazil, Dr. Marvin Johnson served as acting dean.

Technology Begins Research Projects

Solid mechanics study in plastics stress fields involves use of photoelasticity analysis tools.

To meet the challenges of today's world, the School of Technology provided for instruction, research, and services in the entire spectrum of engineering and technology. A major development was made in the content of the Industrial Arts teaching program with emphasis on the relationship between man, machines, and methods in the production of industrial projects. Four major research projects were undertaken, including a study in plastics by Dr. Marisa Canut-Amoros. Scholarships for students were provided by the Natural Gas and Pipeline Company of America and by the American Society of Heating, Refrigeration, Air-Conditioning Engineering.

During the year, Julian Lauchner, the former dean, took leave to work in Sao Paulo, Brazil, as a chief scientific adviser with the Ford Foundation. In his absence, Marvin E. Johnson was named acting dean for the academic year.

Two New Courses Offered at VTI

Vocational-Technical Institute comprises only part of the Division of Technical and Adult Education which offers adult education classes in nearly 75 communities and on the Carbondale, Edwardsville, and VTI campuses of the University. The division conducts many special schools, short courses and workshops.

VTI serves students who are seeking the technical knowledge they need to begin their chosen careers. Most are enrolled in two-year associate degree programs in technical, health and business fields; some take one-year certificate courses in personal services and other vocational areas. This year two new programs were initiated in Corrections and Law Enforcement and in Civil and Highway Technology.

Dean Ernest Simon stands in front of the new men's dorm built this year on VIT's campus.

To attain proficiency and skill in commercial art, students are taught professional methods.

A year of training in basic nursing gives graduates a certificate from VTI in Practical Nursing.

During her training, a dental hygiene student gets practical experience in clinic sessions.

At the SIU airport, aviation technology students learn in a combined hangar-classroom-laboratory.

Second Year VTI Students

Former professor of English, Dean William Simeone, supervises Graduate Studies and Research.

Provisional Graduate School Council Started

Moving to new quarters in barracks on campus, Graduate Studies and Research opened in fall term with an enrollment of 2650. Programs are being developed with an outlook toward the future in the areas of computer science, molecular science, and history. A publication is being planned primarily for the purpose of keeping graduate faculty and students informed of happenings in the School. Made up of graduate students from each school, a Provisional Graduate School Council was started this year to advise the Graduate Council.

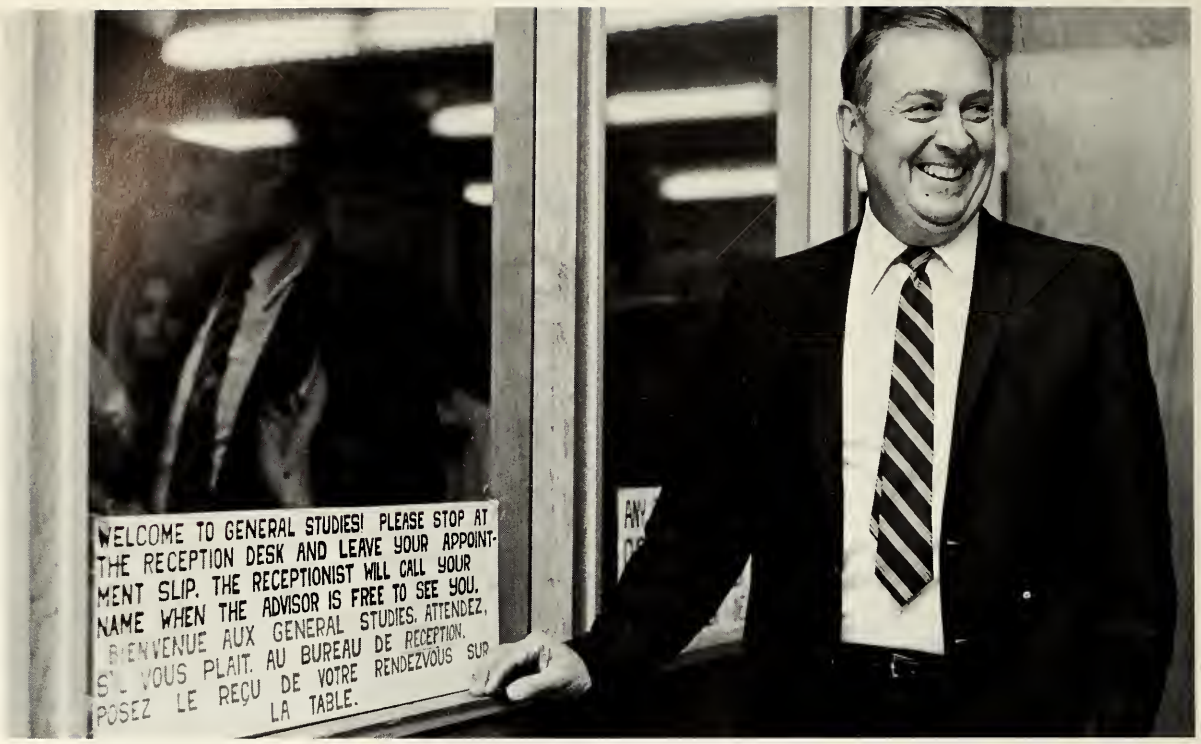
Financial aid in the form of graduate fellowships, teaching assistantships, graduate assistantships and research assistantships were available to assist and encourage students to complete school.

Like many graduates, Janey McWhirter holds a teaching assistantship in which she teaches art.

Doing rat tissue studies, zoology student Billie Perkins conducts her graduate research.

Graduates in English as a Second Language, Takaharu Yamakawa and Jun-ichi Nagona, work in language lab.

Giving an IQ test, Suzanne Lally fulfills a requirement for becoming a rehabilitation counselor.



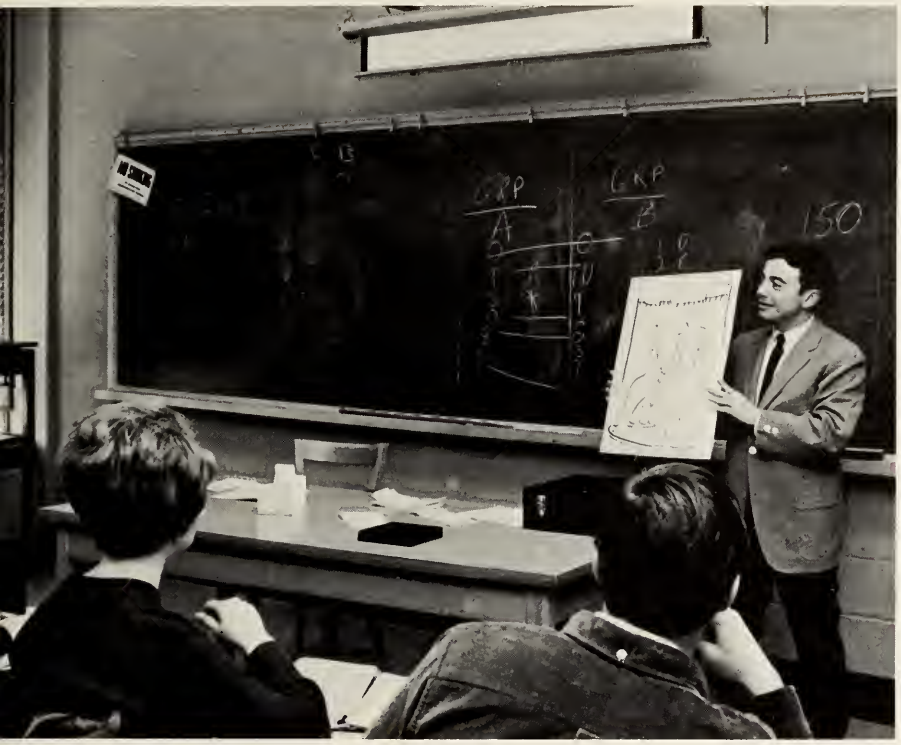
Serving as dean of General Studies, John Voigt supervises the program in an advisory position.

General Studies Requirements Changed

With the beginning of fall quarter, 1967, General Studies requirements were altered. Hours required to be completed in Area A and Area B were changed from 24 to 22 hours and the sequence of three three-hour courses was changed to one of two four-hour courses at the freshman and sophomore level. Area C was also changed from 24 to 22 hours while requirements in the remaining two areas remained the same. Thus the total number of hours which SIU students must complete in General Studies decreased from 96 to 90.

Initiated in 1965 after two years of experimentation and evaluation, the General Studies program is designed with attention to relevance and continuity of subject matter to give students a broad base of knowledge to build their college education.

Recently installed in Lawson 121, the innovative Student Response System is computer run.



Discussing optical illusions, students partake in a general studies psychology lab session.

Devices made by design students will prevent a glass slide from breaking when dropped six feet.

Before beginning laboratory work, the instructor lectures to the general studies physiology lab.

Each Tuesday, student cadets enrolled in the ROTC program wear their uniforms on campus.

ROTC Receives Faculty Additions

Previously limited to only juniors and seniors, the AFROTC Financial Assistance Grant Program was opened this year to sophomores. Only cadets in the four year ROTC program are allowed to receive the scholarships. Two newly assigned Air Force officers, Lt. Col. Robert Bullock and Capt. Henry Staley, arrived at Southern this year to add to the aerospace studies staff. Eight SIU senior cadets interested in becoming Air Force pilots participated in the flight instruction program. Upon completing this program and passing the Federal Aviation Agency exams, they will receive their pilots' licenses.

During the 1968 winter term, Arnold Air pledges donated an American flag to University Park.

President's Scholar Janet Powell receives an early advisement appointment in the Center.

Selected Scholars Replace Plan "A"

Replacing Plan "A", the President's Scholar Program was initiated this year under the direction of Professor James Benziger. Freshmen and sophomores with high academic potential were invited to join the program. President's Scholars receive the advantage of early advisement appointments and special course sections set aside just for them. University faculty members are invited to the President's Scholars Center to meet with students interested in their field. Scholars made public service their goal this year as 40 students participated in a YMCA program for tutoring children in reading.

Through the YMCA, President's Scholars interested in public service tutored children in reading.

A diversion from the normal daily activities was the feeding of baby mice by counselors.

While at camp, the children find the lake a major attraction during the hot summer weeks.

Little Grassy Opens New Winter Camp

Since the early 1950's, a model camp complex on the shores of Little Grassy Lake has been the scene of summertime camping and training programs for crippled and retarded children. Part of the camp has a capacity of approximately 400 children and adults with handicaps ranging from mental retardation to muscular dystrophy. Facilities are also available for children with speech and hearing defects. For the first time, the program has been extended to the winter months with weekly camp sessions for emotionally disturbed or retarded children emphasizing education with a strong outdoor flavor.

Children are offered an opportunity to make their own handicrafts at the camp session.

Dean Raymond H. Dey guides and administers the Extension Division in its two main functions.

Extension Division Promotes Meetings

Under its program of offering college-credit courses to the people of Southern Illinois, the Extension Services last year scheduled 139 courses in 40 different communities. This program reached a variety of people, including inmates of three penitentiaries and the 40 students who took SIU's courses at the University of Oxford in the summer. In its other major function, University Extension Services, working with the University academic departments, promoted and managed conferences. The total number of extension class meetings during the year was approximately 710 and the total attendance 74,440.

During the year, a textbook conference for teachers was arranged through SIU's Extension Division.

Mali's visiting Minister of Education, Dr. Singare, met the ISD team that will work in his country.

Five ISD Projects Operate Overseas

Promoting the intercultural aspects of education within the University, International Services fulfills this goal with work in three main areas. First, the division of International Student Services gives aid to Southern's growing enrollment of 800 foreign students from 81 countries. International Services also assists SIU student and faculty members who seek opportunities for study and work overseas. Finally, with contracts from the Agency for International Development and the Ford Foundation, International Services administrates and operates overseas projects in five foreign countries.

Carol Shay from SIU assists an African sewing class at a social center in Brgnona, Senegal.

Centers Complete Variety of Duties

SIU's academic centers assist the University in a number of ways. With state research money, the Safety Center works to promote traffic safety. Study combining several academic areas is offered by the Center for Crime, Delinquency, and Corrections. SIU's foreign students may learn English in the Center for English as a Second Language. While the Counseling and Testing Center helps students with academic problems, the Clinical Center counsels mentally disturbed people. Among other duties, the Data Processing and Computing Center handles Morris Library's huge book circulation with IBM cards.

The Center for English as a Second Language maintains an English lab for foreign students.

Handling student housing contracts occupies Housing Business Services. Recently opened under Learning Resources Service is the Morris Library Self Instruction Center which helps students prepare for exams and review course material. Job seeking seniors are helped by Placement Service and students who need treatment for illness may go to SIU Health Service.

SIU Health Service offers activity paying students free examinations at the clinic and infirmary.

Institutes Supplement Academic Areas

Working with a Rehabilitation Institute practicum group, Dr. Ralph Roberts reviews counseling tapes.

Supplementing the academic areas, Southern Illinois University's institutes serves students with training in specialized fields and adults who want to augment their education with non-credit courses. For the benefit of the general public, the institutes also engage in research. The Community Development Institute trains students and adults in community leadership and cooperates with the University in research to investigate community and social changes. The Labor, Small Business, and Transportation Institutes also train individuals through short educational courses in related fields.

Alumni Association Expands Chapters

More than 12,000 SIU Alumni Association members now belong to one of 40 chapters throughout the United States and abroad. Chapters in the United States range from New York to Honolulu, Hawaii, while overseas chapters include one recently organized in Taipei, Taiwan. Giving support to the University, the Association raises funds for student scholarships, award programs, and loan funds. Staged June 3, last year's traditional Alumni Day was highlighted by class reunions and the alumni banquet at which the Great Teacher Award was presented to Dr. Kenneth Van Lente, chemistry professor.

An all-purpose building, the University Center is located at the hub of Southern's campus.

Southern Growing With Rapid Speed

An ever expanding campus stretching out in all directions characterizes Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. Old buildings fall victim to new uses, and temporary barracks are destroyed while new buildings take their place. Sixteen-year-old Woody Hall will become an office building next fall, and some barracks will be torn down to make room for the construction of a long Humanities-Social Science Building which will stretch from north of the University Center to President Morris' home. A new museum was built in Old Main and Shryock and Parkinson are scheduled to be renovated.

From the fourth floor balcony of Morris Library, a panoramic view of SIU's campus can be seen.

Opening in the summer of '67, the General Classrooms Building houses the School of Business.

Towers Guides Football Fate as SIU's

New head coach, Dick Towers, has a shirtsleeve, Saturday afternoon talk with Doug Hollinger.

Barry Stine slips the ball to fullback Tom Wirth as he sees a hole in the Northeast Missouri line.

New Head Coach

Prior to spring '67 football practice Ellis Rainsberger, who in one year as head coach led the Salukis to a 4-5-1 season, announced his resignation. Dick Towers, then an assistant coach, was given the call to shape Southern's football fate for the 1967 season. Here are the game-by game results:

SIU 18, Northeast Missouri 7—Freshmen and early returning students saw the Salukis win their home opener. All scoring came in the first half on two TD's, a safety, and a Ralph Galloway field goal.

SIU 0, Louisville 26—The Salukis paid an unpleasant call to Louisville and found themselves blanked on the scoreboard while penetrating no farther than the Louisville 21 yard line. Towers favored Tim Kelley in his search for an effective quarterback.

SIU 10, Lincoln 19—Failing to produce the clutch play, SIU found itself beaten by a kickoff return and a 73 yard run. Saluki scoring came on two safeties and Doug Hollinger's touchdown.

SIU 8, East Carolina 21—Four pass interceptions led to the Saluki downfall at East Carolina. SIU scored with a Kelley pass to John Quillen on the last play of the game. Fullback Hill Williams returned to a starting spot after an appendectomy.

SIU 14, Dayton 34—Southern jumped to a two TD lead behind fullback turned quarterback, Doug Hollinger, but later fell back into a losing pattern. Four freshmen saw action for injury riddled Southern.

SIU 0, North Texas State 37—SIU was smothered in its fifth consecutive loss by a Texas size aerial attack. Five scoring passes were thrown as the SIU defensive secondary couldn't click. Quarterback Hollinger was injured and replaced by Jim McKay.

Jack Rushing, Ike Brigham, and Hill Williams put up a big wall of pass blocking for Barry Stine.

Some Saluki players take a few minutes before the game to rest and think about victory.

Jim McKay throws to Charlie Pemberton on a short gain pass as John Sachs prepares to block.

Tulsa Victory Brightens Homecoming

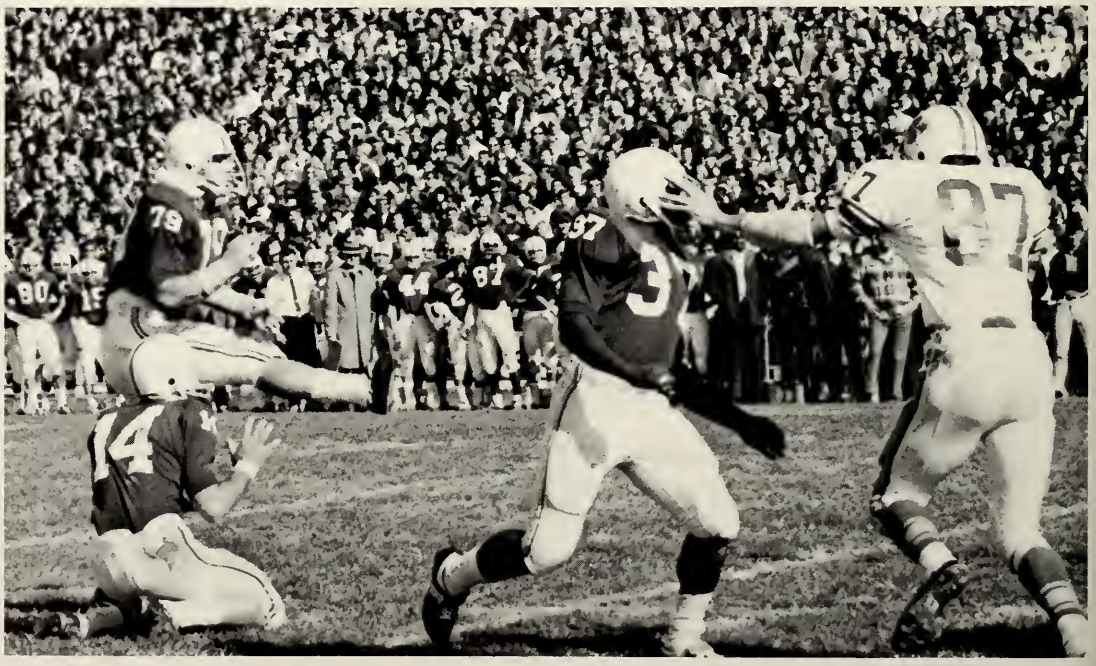
The card section throws cards wildly as the Marching Salukis add to the joy of a Saluki score.

SIU 16, Tulsa 13—An inspired, almost unbelievable Homecoming win over Tulsa gave Southern gridiron fans one to remember. The Hurricanes scored 13 points in the first quarter but the spirited Salukis fired back for a 16-13 victory. In SIU basketball tradition, the grid team took on the big fish and landed him. At the time Tulsa was leading the nation in total offense, passing offense, and defense. Team members who turned in outstanding plays included: John Quillen, three pass interceptions; Ralph Galloway, three field goals; Carl Mauck, outstanding linebacking including a game-saving pass interception.

SIU 3, Youngstown 29—Hot off the "best game of the year" Southern played its "worst game" in the words of Coach Towers. Galloway kicked a 35-yard field goal but SIU had minus 21 yards rushing.

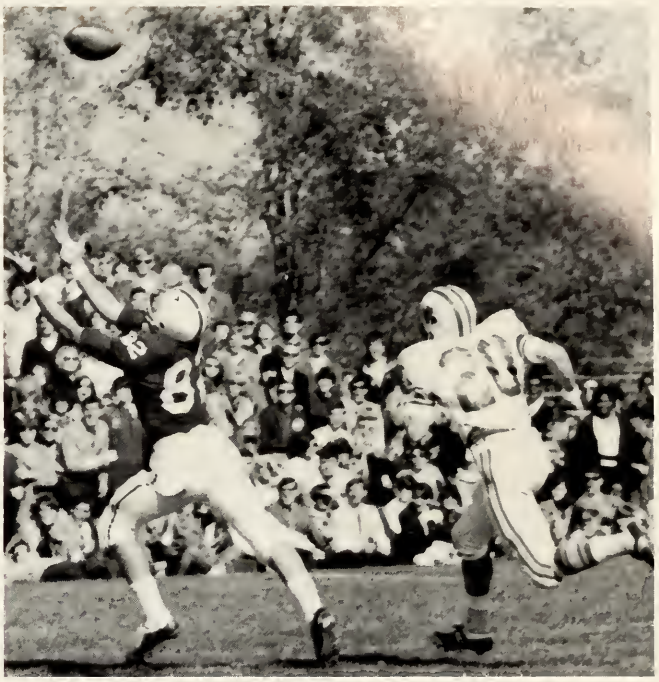
SIU 6, Ball State 24—Jim McKay completed 12 of 18 passes for 146 yards and a touchdown but the rushing could only muster 112 yards. A grinding offense gave Ball State 3 TD's and one field goal. The Cardinals later played a bowl game.

SIU 45, Drake 17—Southern showed its "big offensive attack" in a season ending Parents' Day victory. A fake field goal turned into a TD and two touchdown tosses gave visiting moms and dads a sample of Saluki power. Winning the first and last games of the season plus a sweet Tulsa upset gave the Saluki team an overall 3-7 record.



Ralph Galloway boots one of three field goals that provided the winning SIU margin over Tulsa.

Late in the Homecoming game, defensive standout Carl Mauck (52) stole a Tulsa pass to save the game.



End John Ference races to catch a touchdown pass following a fake field goal try against Tulsa.

Goal posts in both end zones at McAndrew fell to the victorious Saluki Homecoming crowd.

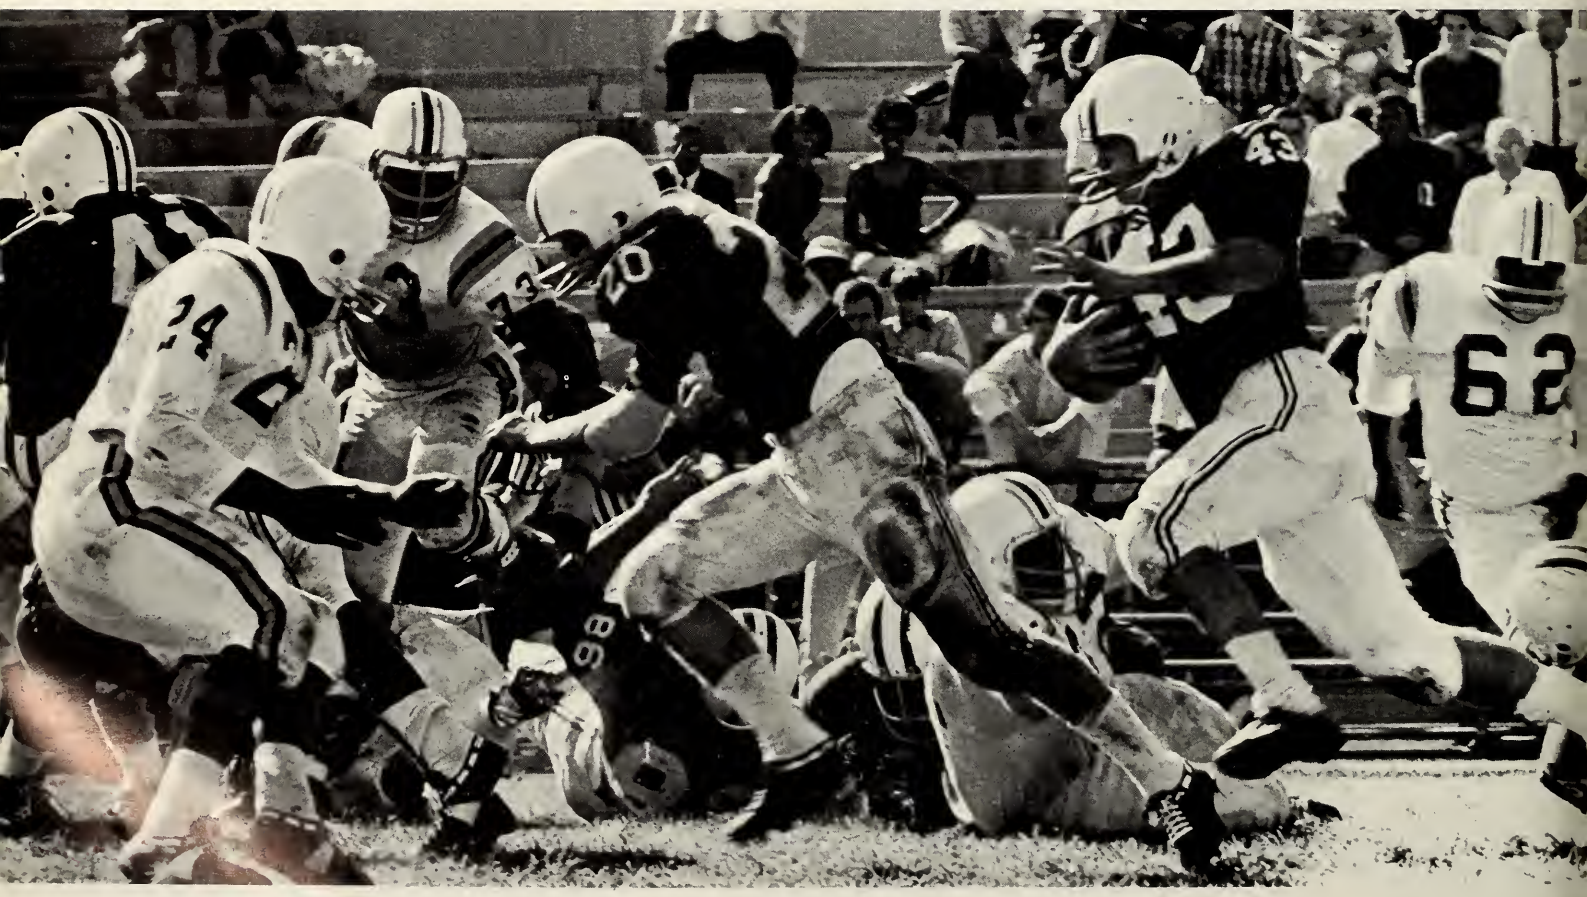
Doug Hollinger, the Salukis' record breaking return specialist, looks for his upfield blocks.

Several Individual

Although the '67 gridiron team wasn't a winner, it produced some record breaking individuals.

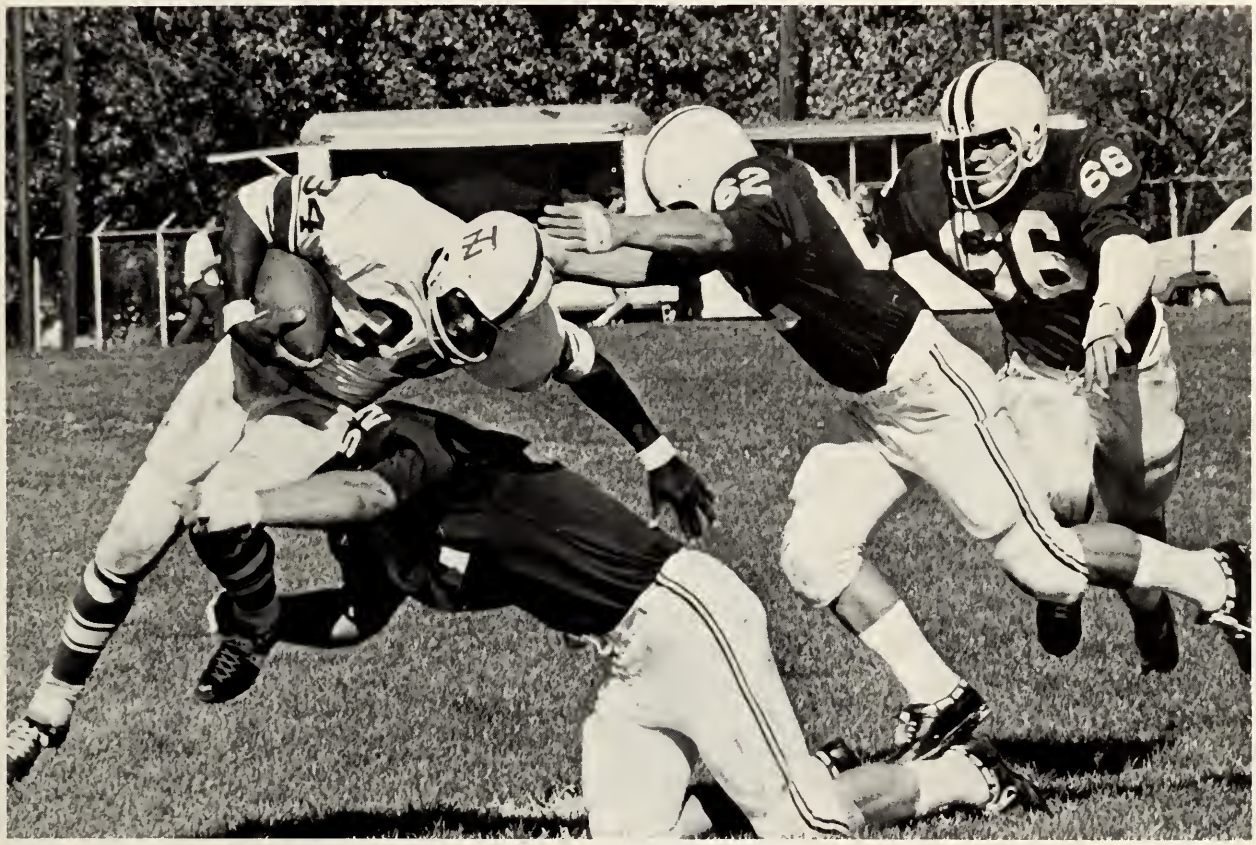
Southern's kickers stood out. Punter Barclay Allen broke his own record with 55 punts totaling 2,245 yards—a 40.4 yard average. By scoring three field goals against Tulsa and six all season Ralph Galloway set game and season marks.

Doug Hollinger set records with 21 punt returns for 313 yards. End Tom Massey copped career marks in passing yardage with 1,350 yards and 11 TD catches. Another senior end, John Ference, set the career mark for receptions (108) finishing only 26 yards behind Massey. Leading rusher for the year was Charles Pemberton with 491 yards. Quarterback Barry Stine threw for 523 yards and two touchdowns while Jim McKay had 540 yards with three scoring passes.



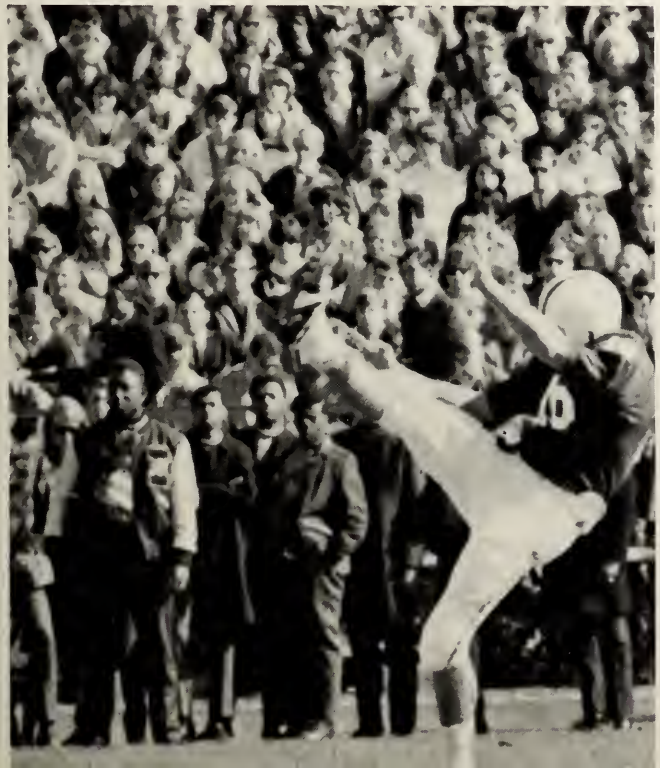
Hollinger leads the blocking for Keith Leigh as he sprints around the Lincoln Tigers' right end.

Record Breakers Produced in Season



Linebacker Carl Mauck puts the vice on a North Texas back as Bob Roberts and Bill Patrick help.

Canadian punter Barclay Allen booms a high spiral on his way to breaking his own school record.



While the defense works, Coach Dick Towers talks over the next set of downs with the offensive line.

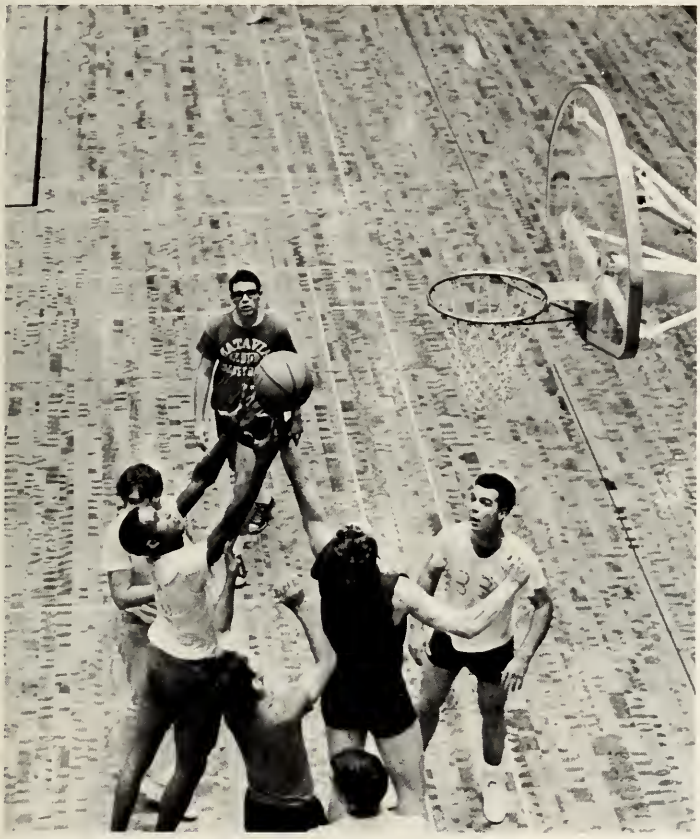
Turkey Trot Added to Intramurals

The first intramural program at SIU was initiated in 1927 with eight basketball teams. By 1948 only softball had been added. In 1954, however, the program took on new vigor under the direction of SIU alumnus Glenn "Abe" Martin. With the addition of the Turkey Trot cross country run this year the program was expanded to 18 sports. Basketball is still the most popular, recording 2,250 cagers, but football with 2,200 and softball with 2,000 are close behind. In addition to these standards, a wide variety of both individual and team activities is designed to offer something for nearly everyone. With this growing enthusiasm, present facilities in University School and the Arena are no longer adequate and Martin hopes to see a new intramural building constructed in the near future.

Tom Von Thury poses with his prize after beating out 50 other runners in the Turkey Trot.



With 142 teams competing this year, the six available hardwood courts were seldom vacant.

Intramural "uniforms" run the gamut from fancy jerseys to holey, hand-me-down T-shirts.,

Bowling is offered each quarter, with competition including both faculty and student teams.

The will to win in intramurals, reflected here, is sometimes as great as in the pro leagues.

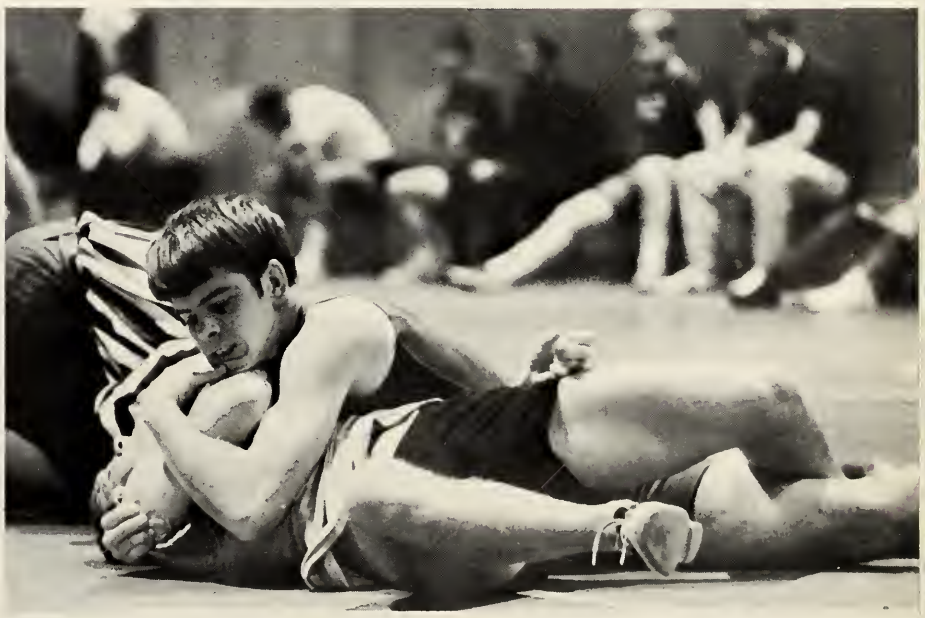
Contact such as this sometimes calls for subs which are seldom available during intramurals.

Independent, residence, and fraternity teams provide league play in sports such as football.

Softball enthusiasts are active both spring and summer quarters with 12" and 16" leagues.

Individuals Gain Intramural Titles

Trophies for individual intramural sports went to Jerry Leinecke in badminton, Bob Johnson in horseshoes, Ron Alden in tennis, and Mike Sobacke in the hole-in-one golf tournament. In team competition, both football and 12" softball went to Delta Chi, while the Brown Gods swept the basketball playoffs. The Imperial Wizards triumphed in wrestling, the Sweatsox won out in 16" softball and the Persian Eagles came out on top in volleyball. The track and field events title went to the Saluki Soul Brothers and Swimmers '68 splashed on to victory in swimming competitions.



Tony Rubiano, on top in this situation, won the 128 pound class, one of eight divisions.

The Aquaettes put hours of wet practice into producing a synchronized spring quarter show.

WRA Adds Track to Wide Program

The Women's Recreational Association added track and field to its 13-sport program to provide another source of fun and relaxation to its 1,100 participants. Basketball is still the most popular sport with 20 teams in three leagues. Volleyball leagues, modern dance club, and gymnastics are other popular sports. Miss Charlotte West, the WRA's adviser, said the spring golf team was "tremendous" headed by Dorothy Germain, last year's U.S. Women's Open Champion. The Aquaettes presented a synchronized swimming exhibition in their annual spring show. Southern's WRA was host to sectional tournaments in tennis, golf, and volleyball. The WRA varsity cage team ended its season with a 15-4 record.

In Southern tradition, basketball is popular in intramural leagues and varsity competition.

Preparing for the Homecoming Alumni-Varsity game, these WRA members practice field hockey.

Marching Salukis Featured in Globe

Billed as the "innovators of a new marching concept," the Marching Salukis add big band sound to the half time entertainment of Saluki grid fans. Complete with formal dinner jackets and "rhythm on wheels" the band traveled to the pro ranks to perform at the St. Louis Cardinal-Pittsburgh Steeler game in Busch Memorial Stadium in St. Louis. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat featured the Salukis in a color spread in its Sunday Magazine section prior to the band's appearance in the Missouri-Illinois All-Star high school game. The all-male band kept the grid fans amused with its somewhat different and original cheers. A smaller pep band entertained Saluki cage fans. New director Nick Koenigstein was assisted by Mel Seiner, director of bands. Jack Montgomery was the drum major. Cindy Nolan headed twirlers Dee Park, Judy James, Linda Von Kriegsfield, Bonnie Ostrum, Karol Bayle, and Lynette Dierks.

Color, Tradition Lead SIU Spirit

Color and tradition add interest to every college sport. Spirit and enthusiasm contribute to each win to make it an all-school victory. The maroon and white clad cheerleaders lead the spirited fans as "Go Southern Go" brings out the Salukis.

The SIU mascot, the Saluki dog, provides more tradition than you can shake a bone at. This oldest pure bred canine dates back to at least 3,500 B.C. when it was utilized as a hunting dog. Considered the fastest dog of all time, the Saluki was adopted in 1951 replacing Maroons as the nickname.

Donning the human Saluki suit this year was Judy Wills. New this year in the spirit line was the addition of cheerleaders for freshman games.

Post-NIT Rebuilding Starts Season

Winning the championship of the National Invitational Tournament is a tough act to follow. Losing four starters and moving to competition in the university division of the NCAA aren't exactly show stoppers either. This was the situation as the curtain went up on the Saluki home opener with Sam Houston State. SIU won handily, 70-54, with Dick Garrett falling below par and Bruce Butchko pumping in 22. MacMurray fell victim to the Salukis the following evening, 78-51, with hot shot Jay Westcott canning 6 for 7 shots. The Big Ten's University of Iowa got a 61-49 victory as the Hawkeyes' big men and zone defense ended Southern's 21-game winning streak. The Salukis entertained Arizona State, SIU winning 62-59. Chuck Benson picked off 17 rebounds and Garrett felt better with 19 points. The University of Arizona turned a second half scoring spree and a cold 33 per cent Saluki shooting mark into a 65-50 victory. It was only the second time in history that the Salukis had been beaten in the Arena. Southern started the Sun Carnival at El Paso, Tex. with a loss to San Francisco, 71-55, but came back to take third with an overtime victory over the Maryland Terps, 73-72, as Garrett plopped in 28.

Saluki Power Trips Kentucky Wesleyan

The Southern road show went to Indiana State and returned with a 76-60 loss. The Sycamores used strong team shooting to steal the show. Garrett canned 26 while smooth movin' Willie Griffin added 19 to pull away from Oglethorpe, 63-52. Senior guard Bob Jackson played a starring role in a 63-62 edging of Kentucky Wesleyan. In the second start of his career, he fired in 20 points, grabbed five rebounds, and made the two winning free throws. Coach Jack Hartman's crew fought off a Washington University comeback after leading 41-26 at the intermission to give the Salukis a 77-75 victory. The St. Cloud Huskies played deliberate, control basketball but couldn't control the Salukis' attack as they beat the Minnesota team, 62-52. Wichita State gave roundball fans a real show before SIU won a regionally-telecast game. Butchko played an aggressive 10-point first half adding to Garrett's 28-point effort. Final happy totals showed Southern the victor, 81-72.

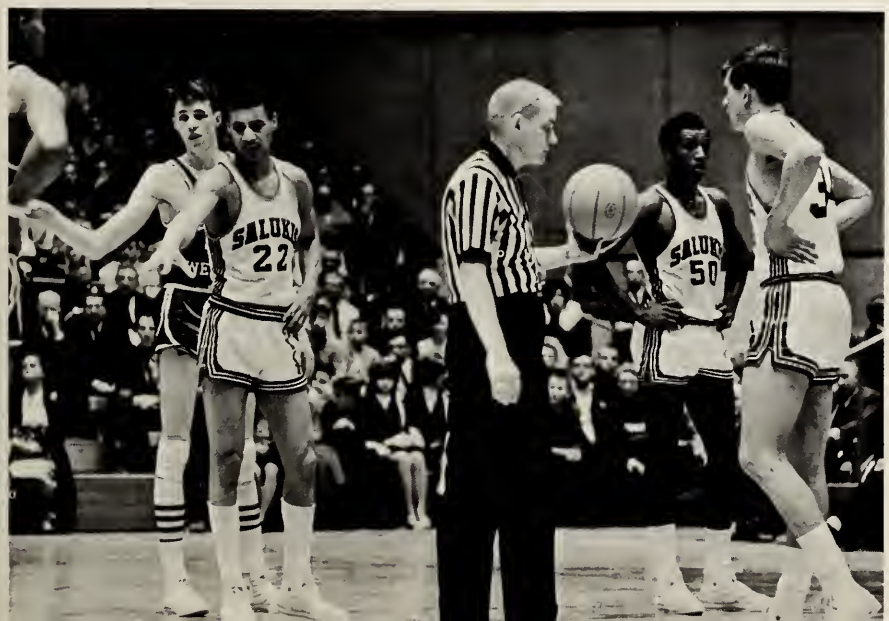
Things needed some cooling off when three technical fouls were called in the Kentucky Wesleyan game.



To start the second half of the season, the Salukis invaded the Vampireland of Evansville. Using the platoon system the Aces beat SIU 52-45 as Garrett was slowed to 4 of 19 field goal attempts. Michigan State's Jim Gibbons scored 15 points in the second half to put the Salukis down, 68-56. Garrett scored 29 in the Chicago Stadium but the team only shot 37 per cent. Greg Mess sank six free throws during the final seconds to push the Southwest Missouri Bears over the Salukis, 67-62. Howard Keene's 22 points weren't enough to beat Kansas State. Keene shot over 7-1 Nick Pina to cop 16 in the second half but the final score was 68-67. Last year's NIT Champs went back to Madison Square Garden but without such success. Chuck Benson turned in his consistent 17 points but strong Duke led all the way to win 78-54. SIU outlasted Southwest Missouri through two overtimes to beat the Bears 75-70 as the Salukis ended a five-game losing streak. Willie Griffin scored 23 points for his season high.

Season's Finale Sets New Records

Television carried SIU basketball to the nation in a brilliant 81-72 victory over Wichita State.

St. Louis played slow, keep-away ball to edge the Salukis 60-54 and Northern Michigan proved an easy Arena foe, succumbing to Saluki power 71-57. Evansville brought its Vampires to Carbondale for a final showdown. The Aces were beaten in field goals 20-7, rebounds 50-32, and total score 61-52. Kentucky Wesleyan's Tom Hobgood sank a desperation shot and a free throw to revenge the Salukis 59-56. Two technical fouls on Coach Hartman and one on mascot Judy Wills marred the exciting contest. A hopeful preview of next season came at the hands of Centenary. It was "Dick Garrett Night" as the hot shooting guard broke Charlie Vaughn's record by bagging 46 points. Garrett was 19 for 30 from the field and sank 8 of 8 free throws. The total team score of 130 points also established a new record as Saluki fans sat on the edge of their seats already talking of the next season's potential.

Future Talent Produces 7-6 Season

The Saluki frosh provide the farm team for the future growth of SIU basketball. The 1968 season saw Coach Jim Smelser bring along several cage talents. Guard Roger Westbrook, a 5-10 Dick Garrett stereotype, led the team in scoring average with 15.9 points a game despite a .371 percentage. In rebounding 6'10" Mike Hessick was the freshman's pillar as he pulled down 11.5 per game and also high scorer with 196 points. He played in all 13 games as opposed to Westbrook's 12. Forward Tom McBride hit 13 of 16 field goals and scored 37 points against Evansville to tie Walt Frazier's record. Rounding out the starting five were Terry Buhs who contributed a steady 11.1-point average and B. J. Trickey, a 9.7 average at the guard position.

Mike Hessick moves to a post and looks for a pass from Westbrook against Paducah Junior College.

Guard Roger Westbrook got a 15.9 point average mostly with this quick, well-formed jump shot.

Girls Take Fourth Collegiate Trophy

In the fifth anniversary year of girls' gymnastics at SIU the fourth consecutive Collegiate Championship was won. Southern has won the Collegiate each of the four years it has existed. Coach Herb Vogel prepped his gymnasts towards the Olympics this year hoping to put as many of his ten All-American girls on the Olympic team as possible. One dull spot on the record, however, was a loss to Centenary College that chopped the girls' winning streak at 49 in a row and lowered the season mark to 6-1. Donna Schaenzer was the team's most valuable and as Vogel said she "continually held the team up." Sparkplug Judy Wills successfully defended her trampoline title (the fifth in a row) and also her tumbling crown.

Gymnasts Complete Season of 'Almosts'

Junior Wayne Borkowski showed much improvement during the season competing on the still rings.

The 1968 season was one of "almosts" for the Saluki men's gymnastics team. The team was almost undefeated in dual meets and almost won the 1968 NCAA Championship.

After recording 68 straight dual wins since 1961, SIU succumbed to Iowa at Iowa City to break the streak. Later the gymnasts revenged the defeat by beating Iowa in the Arena.

The gymnasts also almost copped their third successive NCAA title but were edged by one tenth of a point by California 188.25 to 188.15.

The '68 team loses many of the top performers next season including Paul Mayer, Fred Dennis, Gene Kelber, Dale Hardt, Jack Hultz, Joe Polizzano, Joe Dupree, Al Alexander, and Ron Harstad. However, Coach Bill Meade, never a pessimist, looks to the youth of the team to come on and build another string.

All-around man Pete Hemmerling is a junior and represents some of the upcoming future talent.

Gene Kelber brings his floor exercise routine to a close. He also works on the long horse.

Lower Weights Hurt Wrestling Season

A lack of consistent winners in the lower weight divisions hampered Coach Jim Wilkinson's 1968 wrestling squad. Through graduation, ineligibility and sickness, seven lightweight men were lost and the heavier weights were forced to take up the slack. Standout of the team was sophomore Ben Cooper who recorded a 20-1-1 record. At 177 pounds Cooper led Al Bulow (13-3 at 191 pounds) and heavyweights Rich Seloover (11-4) and Bob Roop (5-0-1). Bulow and Cooper were given honorable mention on the mid-season All-American team. In the NCAA Tourney, Bulow was defeated in the finals and Cooper and Seloover were eliminated in second round preliminaries as SIU took 35th place. A new NCAA rule allowing freshmen competition on the varsity bolstered the lower weights with the addition of Rich Casey and Dan Chapman in the lower weights.

Tankmen Set Records in NCAA Meet

The Saluki swimmers worked during the season to build toward a record-setting NCAA meet. The tankmen recorded 31 points to take 15th place in that event, the best SIU finish since 1965.

Senior All-American Ed Mossotti set new school records in the 50-yard freestyle (21.2) and the 100-yard freestyle (46.9) in the finals. The 400-yard freestyle relay composed of Bob Schoos, Vern Dasch, Scott Conkel, and Mossotti took 6th in a new varsity record of 3:09.45. The 800-yard freestyle relay set a new record 7:12.7.

SIU Soccer Club Gains Recognition

The International Soccer Team, although not a part of the intercollegiate program at SIU, earned much acclaim during the past season. Starting two years ago as recreation for Southern's foreign students, the club was formally recognized last fall and boasts nearly 50 members from 22 nations. The club sponsors the team in a heavy schedule of matches and practice. The team highlight this season was a 5-4 victory over St. Louis University, which later became the 1967 NCAA champion. Due to the success of the club and the growing interest in soccer in this country a committee has been formed to consider soccer in the expansion of athletics at SIU.

Only One Contest Won by Harriers

With five returning lettermen and one of the toughest cross country schedules ever, Coach Lew Hartzog was looking for an enjoyable season. Things got off to a bad start as No. 2 harrier, Jeff Duxbury, injured his heel and a replacement was needed. During the opening meets, Oscar Moore recorded three firsts and set three course records but the team could not provide enough points to win. Moore was later declared ineligible because of low spring quarter grades, so Coach Hartzog decided to run as a track club for most of the remaining season to let Moore compete. The team managed to salvage a lone victory from Murray State but decided not to enter the Central Collegiates or the NCAA runs. Team regulars included Dave Chisholm, Jeff Duxbury, Butch Hohman, Bill Gardiner, and Dale Gardner.

Track Team Takes Seventh in NCAA Meet

Olympian distance star Oscar Moore was plagued with slowing injuries and reoccuring illness.

Saluki trackmen showed their strength to tie for seventh with Big Ten Champion, University of Iowa, in the 1967 NCAA meet. Distance star Oscar Moore took second in the six-mile run and fourth in the three-mile. Earlier in the year Moore ran the worlds' fastest indoor three-mile (13:22.2) at the national AAU meet. Englishman John Vernon took third with 49'11½" in the triple jump, his best mark of the year. Two Saluki sprinters, Ross MacKenzie and Chuck Benson, qualified for the 440. Benson went on to gain a fourth in a new school record of :46.2 seconds. Seventh place is the best Southern has finished since the 1962 team copped a fourth place.

During the regular season the relay teams added points to the individual efforts. The 880 and 440 relay team (Robin Coventry, John Quillen, Benson, and MacKenzie) set new school records of 1:26.6 and 41.4 in those respective events. The four-mile relay team of Dave Chisholm, Jeff Duxbury, Moore, and Al Ackman cut the school mark to 16:56.8 seconds. Mitch Livingston's best high jump of 6'9¼" was also good for a new Southern track record.

Besides good 100 and 440 times Canadian Ross MacKenzie ran the 220 dash in :21.7 seconds.

John Vernon's triple jump in the NCAA meet in Provo, Utah, was his best effort of the season.

Linksmen Enjoy Tourney Success

The 1967 Saluki golf team placed high in three important tourneys. The duffers took seventh at Louisiana State's tourney and a third at the Murray State Invitational. Jim Schonhoff was strong in all the tourneys and medalist with three even par 72's at Murray State. In the NCAA College Division Tourney at Paducah, Ky., Southern placed fifth.

The Saluki golfers faced 1967 NCAA champs Lamar Tech in all three tourneys. Highly regarded dual meet opponents included Missouri, Murray State, Illinois, and Notre Dame. The home course record was upped to 67-3-2 and total record to 136-43-4.

Top linksman was Gary Robinson setting a 73.1 stroke pace. Close behind were Steve Heckel and Jim Schonhoff with 75.2 and 75.8 averages respectively. Completing the starting six were Jack Downey (76.7), Dennis Kortkamp (77.2), and Dave Wargo (77.3).

The SIU netmen marked down an 18-1 season with only Indiana University marring their clean slate. Coach LeFevere said sickness of top player Jose Villarete forced the team to play a notch above usual position against Indiana. A pre-season tour through the South in March gave the Salukis valuable outdoor experience in four matches and a tourney.

Colombian Al Pena was voted most valuable player as he recorded a perfect 13 wins. Other top winners included Jay Maggiore, 13-1; Johnny Yang, 11-3; Jose Villarete, 9-3; Mike Sprengelmeyer, 10-4; and Jerry Garver, 8-2. The No. 1 doubles team of Villarete-Sprengelmeyer was 9-1 for the 1967 season.

Southern hosted the 1967 NCAA tennis finals which drew the largest number of teams in the tourney's 83-year history. University of Southern California won the tourney with SIU tying for 18th on wins by Sprengelmeyer, Yang, and Sprengelmeyer-Villarete in the doubles competition.

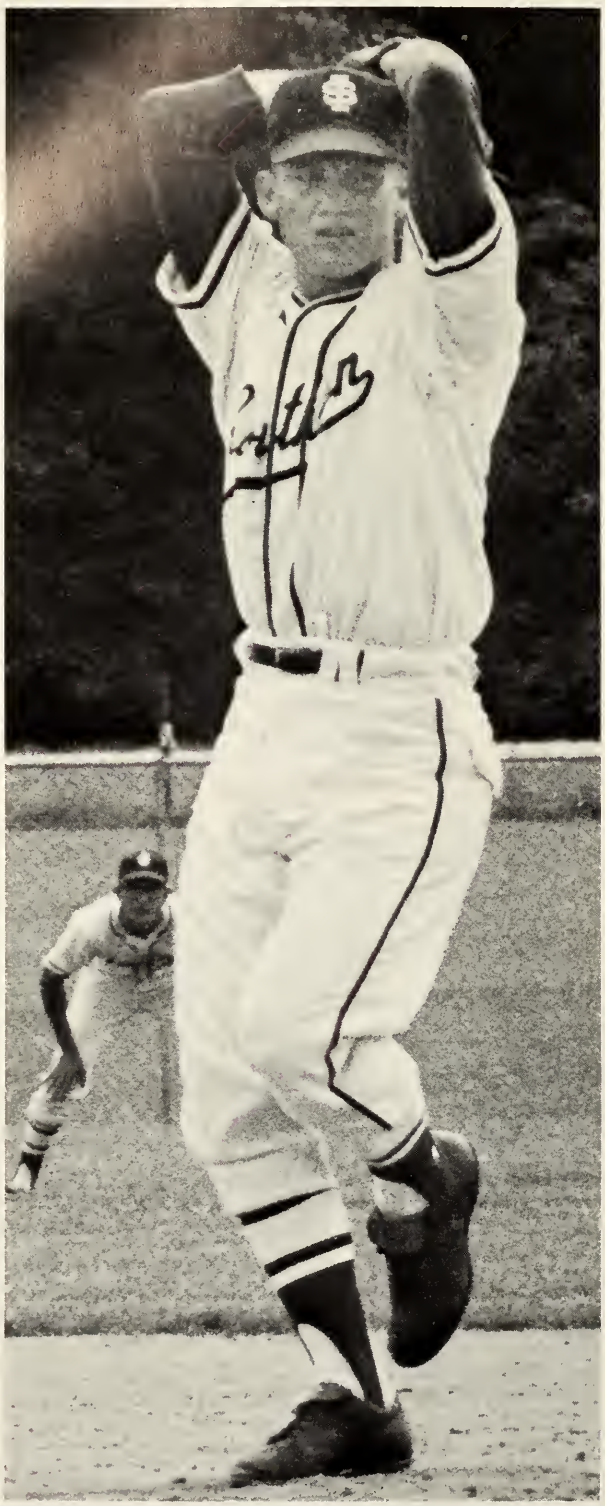
Lutz's Squad Cops Governor's Trophy



Appearing in 15 games and 86 innings, Don Kirkland was the team's ace right hander.

The Saluki baseball team ended the 1967 season with a 29-8-1 record and played host to the district NCAA playoffs. Only two seniors, outfielders Paul Pavesich and Nick Solis, were regular starters. Pavesich led the team with a .325 batting average and Solis hit .238.

Shortstop Rich Hacker, who led the team with 35 hits, was signed by the New York Mets. Ace right hander Don Kirkland compiled a 9-4 season with an ERA of 1.96 and was drafted by the Senators. Going to the Red Sox was John Mason, the leading Saluki home run hitter.

Sophomore Barry O'Sullivan was high in RBI's with 26. Another bright spot in the Saluki batting order was first baseman Dwight Clark who was second in the batting race with a .290. The starting left hander in Coach Joe Lutz's rotation was Skip Pitlock who tallied a 7-1 record. With the team's leading earned run average of 1.18, Howard Nickason won six of eight contests.

One of the season's high spots was the clean sweep the team made in the Governor's Tourney played at SIU with Illinois state schools and Arkansas State.

First baseman Dwight Clark, a junior college transfer, was ineligible for the NCAA tourney.

Shortstop Rich Hacker squeezes home after one of his 35 hits in the team high of 131 at bats.

Lenzi-Karr Elected on Action Ticket

Backed by the Action Party, the ticket of Ray Lenzi-Richard Karr won the spring elections for president and vice-president of the SIU student body. Due to campaign irregularities, the election was declared invalid by the Campus Election Commission, but was later recognized by the Campus Judicial Board.

During his term, Lenzi appealed for longer library hours, better off-campus housing conditions, and struggled with the administration for the continuation of Free School, a student government-sponsored program with academic diversities.

Ray Lenzi, a senior from Farmingdale, clinched the spring election for student body president.

Lenzi's running mate, Richard Karr, a senior majoring in government, acts as vice-president.

Campus Senate Initiates Work Reform

Operating as the voice of the student body, the Campus Senate instituted referendums on women's hours and Viet Nam policy this year. The Senate also began work on a dialogue and controversial speaker program. The object of this program is to invite selected speakers onto the SIU campus to give students an opportunity to hear thoughts on controversial subjects. Senators devoted attention to a student work reform to increase wages through a combined effort of administration and student government. The 31 members of the Senate are geographically elected from off and on campus housing.

Foundation Reaps Contributions for SIU

Receiving gifts in behalf of the University, Southern Illinois University Foundation is authorized to accept donations given for the advancement of scientific, literary and educational studies. The foundation also seeks scholarships and other financial aids for needy students.

Donations made to Southern through the Foundation during the past year include: two barges given to the Theater Department by A. L. Mechling for a floating theater during the Illinois Sesquicentennial, and a matched pair of thoroughbreds—a jumper and a hunter—donated by Harry E. Schlenz.

Contributions are added to SIU under the leadership of Kenneth R. Miller, executive director.

Kept in the Rare Book Room of Morris Library is a copy of the Koran donated by the Shah of Iran.

Ground breaking ceremonies for Family Housing, Phase III, took place during the summer of '67.

SIU Action Party Nabs 13 Senate Seats

Meeting to discuss innovations in the Campus Senate, the Action Party plans its platform.

In the last senatorial election, the Action Party clinched 13 of the then 29 available Senate seats. The party is attempting to institute changes in the way issues are handled in the Senate. In the future the Action Party itself rather than the Senate intends to take definite stands on controversial campus issues. Discussions will be planned by the executive board concerning present issues on the Senate floor. An article explaining the party's platform on each issue was to appear weekly in the DAILY EGYPTIAN. Last spring the Action Party sponsored a stage show at the arena featuring the Supremes.

APB Co-ordinates Campus Activities

The Activities Programming Board serves students by organizing educational and social events during the year. Offering the campus cultural enlightenment in comedy, drama, song, and dance, APB co-operates with the Celebrity Series program which presented such productions as Les Grands Ballets Canadiens, "The Roar of the Greasepaint," and "On A Clear Day." Educational films of three different types—the Savant Series, Cinema Classics, and the Probe Series were offered to students under the auspices of the board. Prior to the yuletide season, APB gave a children's Christmas party in the Center.

A weekend highlight during the fall was an Arena Dance featuring Tommy James and the Shondells.

Under the Celebrity Series program, Skitch Henderson was featured on Parents' Day.

Carbondale children were treated to cookies and punch at APB's annual Christmas party.

International Night gave SIU students the chance to see foreign costumes, dances, and customs.

Chairmen Regulate Special Activities

Mapping out plans for annual special events on campus is the job of student committee chairmen. By application, these chairmen are selected by the Student Activities Office to plan New Student Week, Greek Week, and Parents' Day. Homecoming and Spring Festival chairmen are picked by the SIU student body in an all-school election. These chairmen, who work in boy-girl teams, begin preparations for the traditional events at least a month in advance of the scheduled date. They also select other students to take care of various activities which come under the heading of their committee.

WSIU radio interviewed Governor Otto Kerner when he was at SIU for a Young Democrats' Convention.

Seeking a major in television, C. P. Harding works on WSIU-TV's first color documentary.

WSIU Radio, TV Expand Coverage

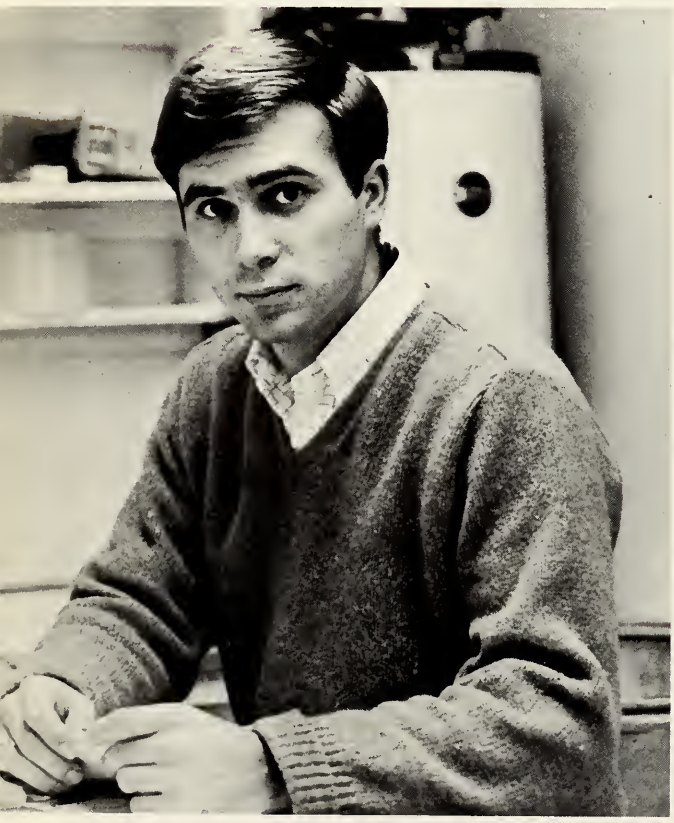
Striving to improve programming of local and national events, WSIU radio and television have enlarged their coverage of news sources. The first Southern Illinois radio station ever to become affiliated with United Press International Audio Service, WSIU radio now has access to on-the-spot coverage of world activities. WSIU radio provides 72 stations with tapes of SIU special events. Broadcasting in color for the first time this year, WSIU-TV filmed a series of color documentaries which made their debut in January. With hopes of nation-wide distribution, social studies programs were also filmed.

Putting WSIU-FM on the air, a radio major announces broadcasting copy and operates the record turntable.

Under the guidance of department chairman, Buren Robbins, WSIU-TV has added affiliate stations.

SIU's Homecoming Queen candidates were introduced by Bob Brunner in "Spotlight on Southern Illinois."

Administration Moves Yearbook Staff to New



During his first year on the staff, Roland Halliday did layouts for the '68 book.

A junior journalism major, Shirley Rohr served as editor of the '68 OBELISK.

Campus Location

After four years of working out of Barracks H2A, the OBELISK staff picked up files, pictures, copy, and yearbook receipts to move to a new location near campus drive. The office will eventually be permanently located in the Communications Building when the journalism wing is added. To gain insight in the general lay-out of the yearbook and to obtain points in writing the copy, the entire staff along with fiscal sponsor, W. Manion Rice, attended the national convention of college yearbook editors in Chicago last fall. The 1967 OBELISK was rated a first-place yearbook by the Associated Collegiate Press.

Junior Gary Blackburn combined the jobs of business manager and sports editor.

Fiscal sponsor of the OBELISK, W. Manion Rice received his Ph.D. degree in journalism this year.

An English major from Tonica, Cathy Ashley planned the academics section for the book.

In her first year on the staff, Marles Reichert was responsible for the activities section.

Van Roy Pancake did the intramurals section and Sue Lindsay worked picture assignments.

Obelisk Staff Prepares "A Year at Southern"

Typing picture idents and copy was the duty of volunteer workers, Roger Streitmatter and Jan Reel.

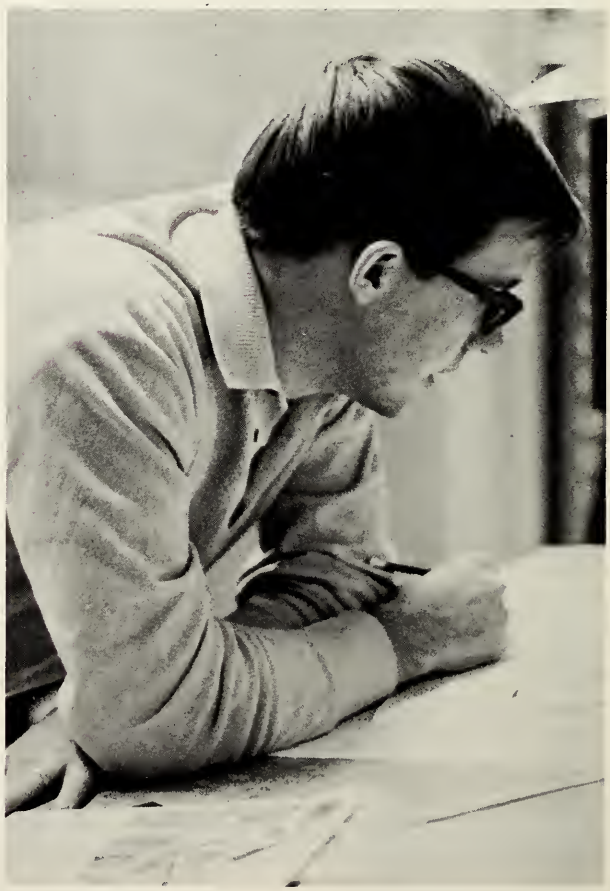
Dana Reed, a psychology major from New York, served as associate editor of organizations.

Egyptian Writers Gain News Sense

Functioning as a prime news agent on the SIU campus, the DAILY EGYPTIAN is published under the guidance and direction of the Journalism Department. The newspaper, which is free of charge to students and faculty, is distributed in the early morning hours to easily accessible, designated spots on campus. In the production of the paper, an editorial board, composed of journalism students, work Monday through Friday to get out the Tuesday through Saturday editions. Aside from reporting University community activities, the newspaper also reports national and world affairs.

Dr. Howard Long, EGYPTIAN adviser, presents a journalism educator award to Michigan State's Fred Seibert.

Before the EGYPTIAN goes to press the newspaper heads are machine-set in columns.



Editorials, features and news stories are researched and written by editorial staff members.

Copy editor, John Fought, checks headlines and edits copy before sending it to the printers.

In setting the type for the EGYPTIAN, the Justo-writer is used to make the columns even.

Daily Egyptian Informs Campus Community

A reporter takes much time to organize and write a by-line story for the newspaper.

Working six-hour labs throughout the week, journalism students edit stories and write headlines.

Each Thursday morning KA can be picked up along with the EGYPTIAN in strategic places on campus.

Uncensored KA Returns to SIU

Due to the printing of unsigned articles during last spring quarter, the SIU administration suspended publication of KA at the end of spring quarter. President Morris' office informed Editor Bard Grosse that policy guidelines of the student-opinion weekly needed to be clarified. This process began in the summer, and on October 26 the first edition of the "new" KA was published. Now appearing separately from the DAILY EGYPTIAN, KA is placed under the Student Affairs division and is no longer subject to pre-publication censorship. The word KA means a mysterious Egyptian force co-existent with the body.

Bard Grosse, editor of KA, checks copy before the student-opinion weekly goes to press.

Serving as a first-year associate editor of KA, David Wilson sets his "nose for news" in action.

SIU campus choral group contributed to the Christmas performance at Holiday Convocation.

Yuletide Performance Given by Choirs

Lending musical highlights to a University year, the Women's Ensemble gave performances for New Student Week and the Christmas convocation. This group also toured Southern Illinois in mid-September. To obtain membership in the ensemble requires a personal audition with Robert Kingsbury, adviser. Other campus choral groups include the University Choir and Oratorio Choir. Combining their talents, both groups presented "The King David Oratory" as a yuletide performance. Southern Illinois University's choral department also features a Chamber Choir consisting of approximately 20 student members.

Robert Kingsbury rehearses weekly with the Women's Ensemble to prepare for special performances.

Southern Players

The Southern Players offer the opportunity for theater majors and those students interested in theater to rush the organization each fall. These pledges gather points throughout the year and are "tapped" as Southern Players in the spring. For the Illinois Sesquicentennial, the summer stock Touring Theater group will present an original play in New Salem. Plans are also being activated to turn the barges recently donated to the University into a touring theater riverboat. Southern Players presents five full-length productions, three children's plays, and three thesis-plays during each school year.

Opera Workshop

Serving her eleventh year as director of the Opera Workshop at SIU, Marjorie Lawrence oversaw the production of opera-excerpt concerts which were featured in the fall and spring. The major production of the year—"The Tales of Hoffmann"—evolved around the three loves of Hoffmann and was presented in February. The Opera Workshop presented a children's opera entitled "The Second Hurricane" in the spring. An SIU extension course is offered at the summer workshop at Harmony Hills Ranch in Hot Springs, Ark., where two programs are featured during the six-week training period.

Glee Club Sings For Parents' Day

The "men of song" began another year at Southern with a performance for the incoming students during New Student Week. Under the direction of Robert Kingsbury, the Male Glee Club consists of SIU men who are eligible for membership upon classification as sophomores in good academic standing. Throughout the year, the Glee Club performed at campus activities such as Homecoming, Parents' Day, and Season of Holidays Convocation. Making guest performances at various colleges and universities in Illinois, the Glee Club sang its repertoire composed of classical and popular music.

Robert Kingsbury, who has worked on radio and television, serves as Male Glee Club director.

Orchestras Offer Special Programs

The Southern Illinois University Department of Music sponsors two orchestras, the University Symphony Orchestra and the Southern Illinois Symphony. Each plays independently of the other for campus activities. The University Symphony Orchestra, directed by Herbert L. Levinson, gave special quarterly concerts, convocation programs, and Opera Workshop productions throughout the year. This year marked Myran Cartman's first year as director of the Southern Illinois Symphony, which played for the Homecoming concert. This symphony includes students, faculty, and Carbondale residents.

Performing for the Homecoming concert, the Southern Illinois Symphony entertained at Shryock.

During weekly rehearsal, the SIU Orchestra practices for Sunday concerts and convocation performances.

Honoraries Serve SIU Community

Forty-three honoraries on campus give SIU students ample opportunity to develop acquaintances with others interested in a particular field of study. Ranging in subject from aviation to speech pathology and audiology, most of the honoraries have the pre-requisite of a certain academic average before initiation into the group. Serving the community and the campus, many of the honoraries have developed new programs such as tutoring elementary school children from Carbondale, giving parties for underprivileged children, and serving as campus guides for special occasions throughout SIU's school year.

One of the most distinguished honoraries on the SIU campus, the Sphinx Club "taps" its members on the basis of individual service to Southern. These services include leadership and cooperation in living areas, campus-community activities, student government, and special interest organizations. Those selected have generally done outstanding work in three or four of these major areas. Established in 1939, the Sphinx Club is strictly a social organization with no academic requirements except 125 credit hours. Because of their extensive service, members have contributed to SIU's social advancements.

Alpha Kappa Psi

SIU's Epsilon Kappa chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi was host for the 1968 Midwest Regional Conference at which 15 chapters were represented. The fraternity, a business honorary, won the efficiency award for the third consecutive time and thus became the outstanding Alpha Kappa Psi chapter in the nation. As a fall service project, the members of the fraternity sponsored a Thanksgiving dinner and a magic show for the children attending Attucks Grade School in the Carbondale area.

As a service project, Alpha Kappa Psi members repair the roof of the Murphysboro YMCA.

THIRD ROW: Mary Mitchell, Linda Hussong, Cathy Ashley, Amy Luk, Linda Lampman, Janet Gosseh, Rosemary Brandis.

Alpha Lambda Delta

Alpha Lambda Delta offers five graduate fellowships to its members. The honorary also gives the Maria Leonard Book Award for the senior member with the highest grade point average. Last year's award was presented to Martha Edmison. Alpha Lambda Delta is an honorary for women with a 4.5 grade point average during their freshman year. Other events sponsored by Alpha Lambda Delta were a tea at the president's home and a picnic for the Illinois State Scholarship winners during the fall.

Alpha Phi Omega

The SIU chapter of Alpha Phi Omega was rated sixth out of 458 chapters of the national organization this year. The service fraternity members built the Homecoming bonfire, the queen's float, and were parade marshalls. Other service to Southern included Parents' Day tours and an Ugly Man contest for charity. The group also ushers for the Southern Players. The fraternity requires a pledge period to become an active member in the organization's many service projects and social functions.

Alpha Zeta

Alpha Zeta members spoke at area high schools and civic clubs to promote the profession of agriculture. The agriculture honorary, which administers student instructor evaluations each quarter, is open to seniors wtih a 3.85 overall or juniors with a 4.0. The annual spring banquet and fall smoker were highlights of the year. Jim Engelhart was awarded the 1967 Alpha Zeta award for the graduating senior with the highest grade point average.

American Institute Of Design, Drafting

Students interested in pursuing the fields of design and drafting are eligible for membership in the American Institute for Design and Drafting. In an effort to give students a look at future job opportunities, members took a field trip to the General Electric plant. At the institute's annual banquet last spring, a personnel executive from U.S. Steel gave members a general outline of what employers expect from graduates. The institute is planning to establish a scholarship in design and drafting.

American Institute Of Interior Design

Installed on Southern's campus in January 1967, the student chapter of American Institute of Interior Designers is an honorary organization for upperclassmen majoring in interior design. The organization is sponsored by its professional chapter, Missouri-East, located in St. Louis. Religious Groups Perform Vital Functions

Catering to the diversified religious interests of the students at Southern, the religious organizations on-campus are composed of American as well as foreign students. Students participate in religious business meetings, listen to lectures during Religion-in-Life Week, and belong to the 20 recognized religious organizations on campus which are a vital part of the school. Acting as a governing body, the Interfaith Council blends the numerous activities of the religious organizations. Most of the groups sponsor dinners, dances, services, and several holy day celebrations during the year.

University Expands Campus Housing Area

A coed finds choosing a tie is a small matter of picking from a large selection of items.

The on-campus university housing areas include Thompson Point, Small Group Housing, Woody Hall, and University Park. An extension to the University Park complex are the two seventeen story Brush Towers dormitories. The dorms, which will house 1700 students, are expected to open in summer 1968. Unlike many other schools, Southern houses its 14 fraternities and sororities into one university housing area called Small Group Housing. The rules and regulations governing student life in university housing areas are made up and enforced by the On-Campus Housing Office.

Greeks Undergo Trial Evaluation Period

Governing body for the sororities, Pan-Hellenic Council sponsored an all sorority open house.

The 1967-68 academic year for Southern's Greek internal organizations was a "year of evaluation" of general rules and regulations governing each chapter. The regulations concerned several aspects of Greek life, including policies of racial discrimination, housing, grade point minimums, and pledging procedures. Forming a vital part of SIU's campus life, the Greeks participated in such activities as Greek Week, Spring Festival and the Theta Xi Variety Show. Individual members of the fraternities and sororities also take an active part in student government and various departmental organizations.

As area dean of Small Group Housing, Ken Varcoe set up policies between Greeks and the administration.

Fall term Sigma Pi fraternity sponsored its first annual All-Sorority Volleyball Contest.

Tri Sigma's Win TEKE Ole-Impics

Parading from Greek Row to McAndrew Stadium, Southern's five sororities competed for the title of TEKE Ole-Impics Champion during fall quarter. After several hours of events, including leap frog, egg races, and relay races, the sisters of Alpha Gamma Delta battled Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority for the decisive point in the Ole-Impics; finally, however, the Sigma Sigma Sigma's grabbed the Ole-Impics title by winning the tug-of-war and totaling up 23 points to the Gams' 21. The TEKE Ole-Impics Queen, voted on by the fraternities was presented immediately following the Ole-Impics activities.

Greek Letter Organizations Sponsor Rush

Painting and posting signs as well as preparing rush skits and songs were the activities undertaken by the fraternities and sororities on Greek Row in preparation for their quarterly rush activities. The Pan-Hellenic Council, sponsoring the all-sorority rush, set up the ruling that coeds needed to have completed 12 hours of study and have a 3.2 grade point average to take part in rushing. Altering the usual rush procedure, the fraternities sent a delegation around to the men's dorms to talk to residents about pledging. The Greek letter societies also arranged informal smokers and parties for the rushees.

Through various communications media fraternities and sororities advertised rush week.

Activities during rush week included dinners. parties, and pledge skits for the rushees.

Soliciting potential pledges, brothers of Delta Chi fraternity visited several men's dorms.

Using homemade costumes and scenery, the Alpha Gams put on a short skit for their rushees.

Greek Week Honors Awarded at Banquet

Victorious in the all-campus tug-of-war, the Tekes and the Delta Zeta's touched off the Greek Week festivities. By establishing a blood bank for the University Health Service, the brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon were the recipients of the Greek Week individual house project award. To give the student body a chance to acquaint themselves with Greek life, the week's activities included the annual Greek Sing, an All-Greek Slave Day and a Greek Week Banquet. At the banquet the most outstanding service to Greek system award was presented to Phillip Scheurer and the outstanding fraternity man and sorority woman awards were also given.

Bill Kiley, a junior from Olympia Fields, was selected Greek God during Greek Week.

A public street dance in the Moo and Cackle parking lot was staged during Greek Week.

Bob Carter and Su Loomis were selected the most outstanding fraternity man and sorority woman.

At the Greek Week banquet, LEAC was the recipient of the Junior Inter-Greek Scholarship Trophy.

SIU's Fraternities Select Sweethearts

A semi-formal or formal scene is usually the setting for various balls, banquets, and parties at which Southern's nine social fraternities crown their sweethearts. The sweetheart candidates, who may be sorority affiliates or independents are selected from a group of girls who are lavaliered, pinned or engaged to a member of the fraternity. The fraternity sweetheart usually receives a fraternity paddle, a trophy, flowers, and other gifts when she is chosen. Depending upon the fraternity, a sweetheart may reign for as long as one year or for only a term until a new one is chosen.

Inter-Fraternity Council

Consisting of delegates from the eight social fraternities located on Greek Row, the Inter-Fraternity Council sponsors a formal rush every fall term. The Ramada Inn in Marion was the site of the Inter-Fraternity Council's winter retreat. An evaluation of the present IFC system and some suggested changes were discussed at the retreat. As well as presenting a quarterly fraternity scholarship trophy, the IFC also awards a shingle to any fraternity member who has a 4.25 or higher grade point average. The All-Greek Sports Champion Trophy and the All-Greek Track Meet are sponsored by the IFC.

Pan-Hellenic Council

Acting as a governing body for the sororities, the Pan-Hellenic Council chose Tri Sigma's, Susan Loomis, as the outstanding sorority woman of the year. Kenneth Lewis was the recipient of the council's first annual scholarship award presented to a Carbondale Community High School student. An all sorority picnic, Greek Week festivities, and an all university dance were some of the activities which the Pan-Hellenic Council co-sponsored. Along with the Inter-Fraternity Council, the Pan-Hellenic Council also sponsors a quarterly rush at which they institute uniform rules which must be followed by sororities.

Alpha Gams Hold Party for Orphans

Teaming up with Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, the sisters of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority sponsored an orphans party for the children from the Hurst-Bush orphanage during the fall quarter. Besides winning second place in the TEKE Ole-Impics, individual members of the sorority took home honors. Janis Dunham was chosen the sweetheart of Delta Chi fraternity, Carol Martindale won the Miss Southern contest, and Rosemary Brown was presented the 1968 Service to Southern Award. An International Reunion Day with the Gamma Xi chapter of the sorority was sponsored by SIU's Alpha Gams.

Practicing for the Theta Xi Variety Show Alpha Gams tried on their "Cabaret" costumes.

AKA's Presented Academic Award

The Arnetta G. Wallace Scholarship Award was presented to Southern's Alpha Kappa Alpha chapter last spring. This award, which was given at the Regional Conference in April 1967, is awarded for the highest overall grade point average of any undergraduate chapter. At a fall Sweetheart Dance, Dan Thomas was crowned "Mr. Kabachio," the sorority's man of the year. A remedial reading program, set up in accordance with the YMCA for the children of Carbondale, was the AKA's winter quarter service project. A banquet and dance were also held at the Holiday Inn for the new AKA initiates.

Phi Sigs Sponsor '67 National Conclave

The national conclave of Phi Sigma Kappa, with 20 chapters from 11 states represented, was hosted in November by Southern's chapter of the fraternity. The local Phi Sigs also received an outstanding civic project award from the city of Carbondale for rebuilding a dilapidated house in the city's poverty area. The fraternity held a dinner for pianist Henry Scott when he was at SIU fall quarter for a convocation series. Phi Sigma Kappa sponsored a homecoming formal fall quarter to celebrate its tenth year on campus and a "little sisters" Christmas formal.

As a civic project, the Phi Sigs repaired a rundown house in the indigent area of Carbondale.

Sig Kaps Capture Volleyball Tourney

For three consecutive terms the Sigma Kappas won a scholarship trophy for having a higher overall grade point average than any other sorority on Greek Row. The sorority invited Jean Rich, a representative from the Merle Norman Cosmetic Company, to give a demonstration in cosmetology at a house forum. Spring term the Sig Kaps won the Sigma Pi All-Sorority Volleyball Tournament and the "spirit award." The sisters of Sigma Kappa celebrated their Founder's Day Banquet in November. In December the sorority also sponsored an open house featuring a "Christmas Around the World" program.

After dinner Sigma Kappa sisters sometimes gather around the piano to sing sorority songs.

Sigma Pi's Henry Hinkley Memorial Award, given in memory of a fraternity brother who was killed in action during World War II and annually awarded to Southern's most valuable athlete, was presented last spring to Walt Frazier. During Homecoming weekend, the fraternity held a buffet and a smoker. Fall quarter the Sigma Pi's sponsored an Orphan's Christmas Party. They also held an all-sorority Volleyball Tournament after which they treated the winning girls to a steak dinner. During winter quarter, the fraternity held a pizza dinner and celebrated their Founders' Day at an Orchid Ball.

Scrubbing the pots and pans in the kitchen is a chore often given to pledges.

Tri Sigma Wins TEKE Ole-Impics

Accumulating the highest number of points in various categories, Sigma Sigma Sigma walked away with the '67 TEKE Ole-Impics championship. Individual members also gained many honors for their sorority. These include Barbara Nicholson, tapped as outstanding sophomore by the Sphinx Club and outstanding sorority woman, Susan Loomis. The annual Christmas Party, Dad's Day, Spring Formal, and Founders' Day Banquet highlighted the year for the Tri Sigs. Having recently decorated their chapter house living room, the sisters of Sigma Sigma Sigma entertained visiting national officers in the fall.

Preparing her own pledge book is one of the first duties of a Sigma Sigma Sigma pledge.

Tau Kappa Epsilon Starts Blood Bank

The brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon took Greek Week firsts in the Tug of War and the service project for which they set up a blood bank at the Health Service. The Tekes took third place in the men's division with their float, "Salukis Close out Tulsa Account," for the 1967 Homecoming parade. A Parents' Day Party at Giant City Lodge was sponsored in November. At the offset of the winter's activities, the fraternity held a Founders' Day Banquet. To close the gap between the activities of Tau Kappa Epsilon and its alumni, the Beta Chi Bulletin, a fraternity publication, was created.

Making use of every inch of wall space a Teke active has garishly decorated his study room.

Theta Xi's Clinch Greek Sing Win

"SIU Makes a Clean Sweep," was the title of the first place Homecoming float made by the brothers of Theta Xi fraternity. The Theta Xi's captured another award last year when they teamed up with Delta Zeta sorority to win the Grand Champion Trophy for Spring Festival midway shows. They also sponsored the 20th annual Theta Xi Variety Show in March at which they presented the Leo Kaplan Award, a $200 grant to a student in the field of science to Terry Titchford. The Theta Xi's took more honors when they captured the first place trophy for of "All My Lovin'" in the 1967 Greek Sing.

LEAC Establishes Little Sister Club

Little Egypt Agricultural Co-operative members this year established a "little sister" program. The girls in this program are selected by LEAC members and help with the fraternity's social functions. At the annual sweetheart dance the members of the fraternity elected Cathy Parrill as their 1967 sweetheart. LEAC was honored by winning both the Inter-Greek Scholarship Trophy and the Inter Fraternity Council Scholarship Trophy for the highest overall grade point averages among the Greek organizations. Lewis Osterman was named the 1967 LEAC "Man of the Year."

Resident Award Initiated at University Park

Through the combined efforts of the Residents Halls Association and the University Park Executive Council, various activities were planned for area residents. The RHA sponsored such events as hayrides, a fall scholarship dinner and the showing of current cinema attractions at Trueblood Hall. Visiting professor Dr. John King spoke at University Park on the topic "Current Issues That Concern Us in Higher Education." Emphasizing improvement in scholarship, the John R. Wright Award, given to the most outstanding resident of the Wright triad, was established.

First composed of Neely, Allen, and Boomer, University has expanded to include Brush Towers.

Voluntary Activity Fees Collected at TP

Newly initiated at Thompson Point this year was a voluntary activity fee. In the past, payment of the fee was mandatory, but this practice was discontinued when it was found to be illegal. Playing a vital role in the operation of activities for the 1300 residents of TP, the Residence Halls Association sponsored an Activities Recognition Dinner, a social program called Plato's Pad, and 31 feature length movies throughout the year. At the annual spring RHA Scholastic Recognition Banquet, those residents who achieved a 4.25 or higher grade point average were honored with a pin and certificate.

First Permanent Dorm Built at VTI

)btaining some helpful advice, a VTI student vorks on a class project for commercial art.

esidents of the only women's dorm at VTI, wo coeds find diversion from academic studies.

At Vocational Technical Institute, nine miles east of Carbondale, the first permanent building, called New Residence Hall, was opened to male students this year. The new air-conditioned, three story dormitory houses 158 of VTI's 339 residents. Other permanent buildings, which will soon replace the present barracks, are in the planning stages.

The apex of activities sponsored this year by the Southern Acres living area included a winter Masquerade Ball and a Spring Swing Weekend. An honorable mention in the organizational category of Homecoming floats was awarded to area residents.

Supervisor of all living areas at VTI, Lyle Adams stands by VTI's first permanent hall.

Woody Hall To Be Converted to Offices

It was announced this year that women's dormitory, Woody Hall, the oldest on-campus living area, was to be turned into an office building next fall. In their last year of operation, the Educational and Social Councils at Woody Hall sponsored the Winter Formal, Christmas Party, and RHA Parents' Day floor decorations. At the annual spring formal, Ariel "Butch" Bryant was the first Negro to be elected Mr. Woody. "Security and the Coed" was the topic of a speech delivered by a representative of Southern's Security Police, Captain Carl Kirk, at a dorm sponsored Woody Hall forum.

Senior "Butch" Bryant received the Mr. Woody award from Marianne Buescher, Miss Woody.

The University Men's Glee Club sang Christmas carols at Woody Hall's annual Christmas party.

Woody coeds provided a pinata filled with candy for the children at their Orphans' Party.

Woody Hall girls hold candlelight ceremonies when a coed is lavaliered, pinned, or engaged.

A quiet place for a telephone conversation is often in the dormitory after women's hours.

Flow of Students to Off-campus Living

The Wall Street Quadrangles, an efficiency apartment complex, are located east of campus.

Opened fall quarter, the Baptist Student Center has its own library, book store, and chapel.

Areas Increases

Because of the increasing number of students attending SIU, the number of those living off campus has increased steadily for several years. As a result of this many off-campus dormitories are being built and expanded to accommodate the surge of students who do not choose to live on-campus. Moving to an off-campus location and a new building, the Baptist Student Center now houses 296 men and women students. Due to financial difficulties the University City complex was forced to close two of its six buildings. Besides dorms many students live in private houses where they have cooking privileges.

A warm day finds the coeds of Wilson Manor on the front steps studying for final exams.

One of the largest off-campus dormitories, the Pyramids houses 160 women and 288 men students.

Located on Freeman Street, Forest Hall with a capacity of 160 male students opened in '64.

Most off-campus students do their laundry in one of the many self-service laundromats.

Off-Campus Area Has No Councils

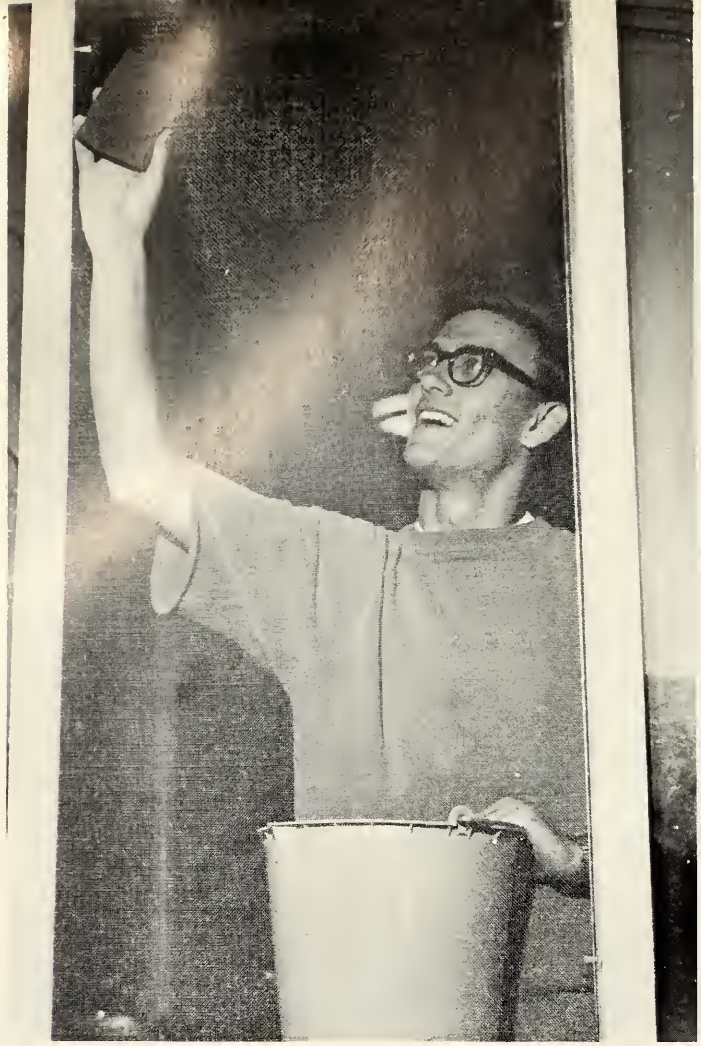
Due to the lack of participation of the off-campus dormitories, the off-campus housing office was unable to formulate any councils this year. To provide closer communications between the living areas and the off-campus housing office, a newsletter was published. Officials said that insufficient funds denied the off-campus housing office the opportunity to sponsor any activities such as those that were held last year, including the Meet Your Professor Program and Host House Nights. Off-campus housing areas, as well as those on campus, are governed by the SIU Housing Office which sets all housing restrictions.

While on duty, a resident fellow may summon a student by using the dormitory's intercom.

Soft music provides background atmosphere for a student to catch up on some studying.

The "right caller" from a men's dorm could be the reason for the big smile on this coed's face.

Washing one's own dishes is a task students must do when living in an efficiency apartment.



Window washing is one of the household chores to be done by students in off-campus houses.

Off-campus coeds get in the holiday mood by putting a Christmas tree in their dorm lounge.

Some off-campus dorms furnish recreational facilities such as pool tables.

Offering privacy and warmth, a commuter's car is the place for some last minute studying.

More Commuter Parking Lots Provided

Commuter students on SIU's Carbondale campus number 2,680. To attend classes on campus most commuters drive five to thirty miles daily. Twice a week though, an undergraduate student from Mt. Carmel drives the farthest of all commuters when she travels 115 miles from Mt. Carmel to attend night classes. To provide for more campus parking ten new parking lots consisting of approximately 1,350 parking spaces were built during fall quarter. The time spent making extra trips to campus to participate in school functions was the major disadvantage voiced by commuting students.

Commuters must obtain a University parking sticker before they can park their cars on campus

Married Students Get New Housing

Approximately 3,190 members of the student body on the Carbondale campus are married students. Southern Hills, a 272-apartment complex, furnishes living quarters for many of these couples while others live in University trailer courts, Southern Acres, or suburban areas throughout Carbondale and nearby towns. To provide more space for married students, 304 low income family apartments, subsidized by the Federal Housing Authority and called the Phase 111 plan, are being built near Evergreen Park south of Carbondale. The expected completion date for this project is January 1969.

Bill Bremser's wife, Linda, keeps him company while he works at the Lentz Hall game room.

While his wife, Ronnie, and son, David, look on Dennis MacDonnell studies for his final exams.

Studying and caring for their daughter takes up Gene and Martha Hanson's spare time.

Foreign Student Enrollment Grows

Viet Nam, Japan and India are only three of the 81 countries represented at Southern by 778 foreign students. Hurdling over the many problems of acculturation in the United States, foreign students reportedly find the experience of living in the U.S. enjoyable and beneficial. Besides coming to Southern to further studies in their chosen fields, many foreign students are involved in activities such as the International Soccer Club and the Visiting International Student Association. Many foreign students also take part in the Model UN program during the February International Week.

Year-end Review

Dr. Morris and the SIU party talked to teachers about improvements for the Normal School.

SIU's president greated Montagnard students at the Ban Me Thout Normal School in Viet Nam.

On his tour to points of interest in Viet Nam, President Morris spoke with General Westmoreland.

Vietnam Tops Tour For SIU President

A two-month trip around the world climaxed another busy and active year as president of Southern Illinois University for Dr. Delyte W. Morris. Before beginning their world junket, the Morrises stopped at the White House for a dinner with President and Mrs. Johnson to meet the King and Queen of Nepal. The Morrises journeyed to multitudinous parts of the world as they visited New Zealand, Australia, Indonesia, Southeast Asia, India, and Europe. While in Southeast Asia, Dr. Morris visited the Vietnam AID project at Dan Me Thuot and met General Westmoreland, commander of troops in South Vietnam.

University Museum Relocated in Old Main

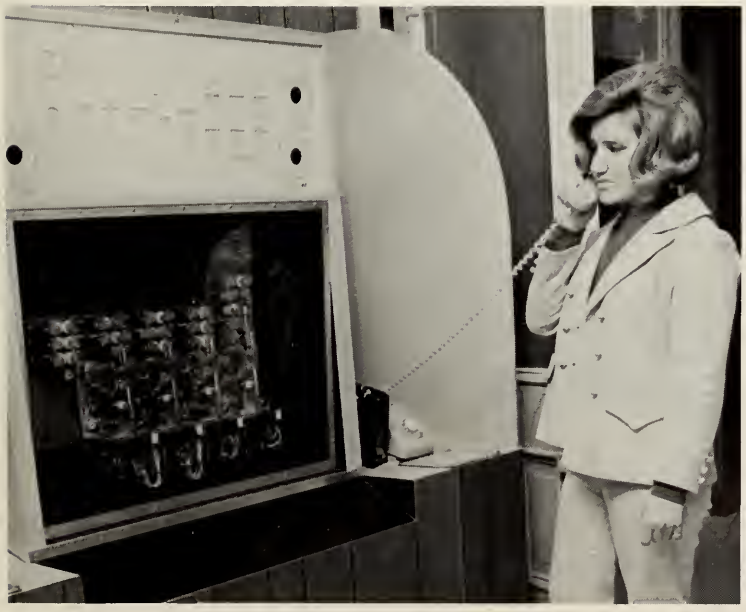
November 19 marked the official opening of the University Museum. Located, appropriately enough, on the ground floor of Southern's oldest building, Old Main, the museum has been expanded in scope and updated to "change with the changing times" so that it may remain contemporary in nature. The museum features six different exhibit sections, including the earth science room, special exhibits room, life science room, social science room, behavioral science room, and communications technology area. Each individual room contains exhibits typifying new and old achievements under the designated areas. The SIU Museum also features a gift shop which includes items imported from Israel, Mexico, Egypt, Yugoslavia, Japan, and many other countries.

Located on the ground floor of Old Main, the University Museum is open to the general public.

A topographical structure of a volcano is among the geological exhibits.

A collage typifying all factions of display areas is found at the entrance to the museum.

A paper mache body illustrates the travel of food to specific areas of the body.



One display in the museum demonstrates the inside intricate workings of the telephone.

John Kelley, director of the University Museum, welcomed guests at the November 19th opening.

Professionals Visit Campus Year Around

Due to impending deadlines, the OBELISK must sometimes by-pass some of the great performers who appear on the SIU campus in the late winter and early spring. At this time and space in the book, however, the staff gives recognition to some of the "late" performers who appear at Southern. Freshman Convocation has brought many famous people to Southern such as Henry Morgan, well-known panelist of "I've Got a Secret" and Pearl Buck, acclaimed author. Another professional honoring the University with her presence was Ella Fitzgerald, who appeared in concert at the SIU Arena. On February 23, the SIU Arena again set the stage for two greats in the professional world—Harry James playing old and new hits on his trumpet and Ed Ames singing some of his recent top tunes.

Appearing at Freshman Convocation on February 8, Henry Morgan entertained students with his wit.

Blowing his trumpet, Harry James brought back many memories for members of the audience.

This triple exposure shot was taken at Ella Fitzgerald's January 28th performance.

Controversial Happenings Occur at SIU

Fred Halstead, presidential candidate for the Socialist Workers Party, spoke to Southern students.

Southern had its share of controversial conflicts this year. Two situations arose as the result of speakers on the SIU campus and another clash was caused over the showing of a film by Southern's television station, WSIU-TV. Matt Koehl, National Nazi Leader, spoke at SIU on February 26 and aroused a crowd of 750 to a near-riot. Koehl, who spoke out strongly against Negros and linked Jews to the power structure of international Communism, was harrassed constantly during his speech and was faced with a walkout of some 100 students. Fred Halstead, presidential candidate for the Socialist Workers Party, also aroused some tempers, but no "riot action" occurred. A film about Viet Nam containing Communist propaganda was scheduled for showing on WSIU-TV, but then cancelled because of its controversial nature. After appeals that the public had the right to see and hear, the film was later rescheduled for showing.

Crowds teetered on the edge of violence when Nazi leader, Matt Koehl, addressed students in February.

Completion of the multi-million dollar Life Science addition has been set for fall of '69.

Building Goes On in Never-ending Cycle

"The big detour" is the name some students have given the magnanimous hole which has been dug to lay foundation for the Life Science addition on the middle west side of the SIU campus. University students have found that the inconvenience of navigating around the construction is a definite disadvantage and has aroused speculation among students to petition for more time between classes. Other campus construction and destruction includes the building of a steam tunnel at the south side of Wham Education Building and the demolition of temporary barracks for permanent buildings. Construction of the first permanent dormitory at SIU's Vocational Technical Institute was also completed this year.

Temporary barracks such as these are gradually being replaced by modern permanent buildings.

Construction around Wham required temporary bridges so that students could enter the building.

The steam tunnel in front of Wham will facilitate campus buildings with electricity and heat.

Replacing temporary barracks, New Hall, VTI's first permanent dorm, houses 158 students.

The University Center book store is scheduled to change places with the larger Olympic Room.

Ping pong and pool and billiard tables are some of the recreational facilities in the Olympic Room.

The front entrance to the Center serves as a pick-up place for bus service to all points on campus.

Used for quiet talk and study, the Magnolia Lounge also features periodic photo and art displays.

Versatile University Center to Undergo Changes

A soundproof 16-lane bowling alley is used for physical ed classes and student recreation.

All four levels of SIU's University Center have been scheduled for renovation plans. Because of inadequate space and recreational facilities due to increasing enrollment, several major revisions will take place. A rathskeller scheduled for 24-hour operation is planned for the first floor and the addition of another cafeteria is expected to double the seating capacity of the present one. To allow for better recreational supervision, the Olympic Room and the book store will swap places. A south entrance near the Physical Science Building will be added and escalators are to be installed. The construction of a new auditorium seating 300 people and the moving of the River Rooms to the second floor are other changes included in the Center's face lifting.

A rathskeller and new cafeteria are planned to overflowing crowds in the Oasis and Roman Room.

Board Approves Athletic Expansion

The SIU Board of Trustees approved a balanced plan of athletic expansion during the school year. An extensive study was made by a Student Senate Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics and reviewed by various University councils and the administration. A student referendum was passed and outside experts were called in for advice. In February the Board directed President Morris to begin expanding the athletic program with special emphasis on football and golf. The Board stressed that the expansion was University and that athletics should retain its place in relation to other departments. A student activity fee increase was considered as the source of money for such expansion and was to be referred to the Board as soon as Morris and the Athletic Council had determined budget. Additional NCAA scholarships, a new stadium, and more assistant coaches are among the major expenditures considered.

And Finally.....Now That It's All Over...

I suppose every editor and his or her staff feels a tremendous load lift off their shoulders when the cardboard box marked FINAL COPY is at last sent off to the printer. We, however, of course know best what our own problems were and what were the highlights of the book for us; and we feel something besides the great feeling of not having a deadline to meet—we feel we have accomplished what we set forth to do.

We have tried to give the student body, faculty, and incoming students a nutshell summary of "a year at Southern." The students and faculty, of course, didn't need to be told what a year at SIU is like, so we merely recorded it for them so they could remember it for years to come. To incoming students we believe we have shown that SIU is a place for much advancement, a place for a college social life, and most important, a place for learning.

Those who helped in the production of "a year at Southern" included W. Manion Rice, fiscal sponsor; the associate editors, Gary Blackburn, Cathy Ashley, Marles Reichert, Roland Halliday, Mimi Sandifer, Dana Reed; and all of the voluteer workers.
